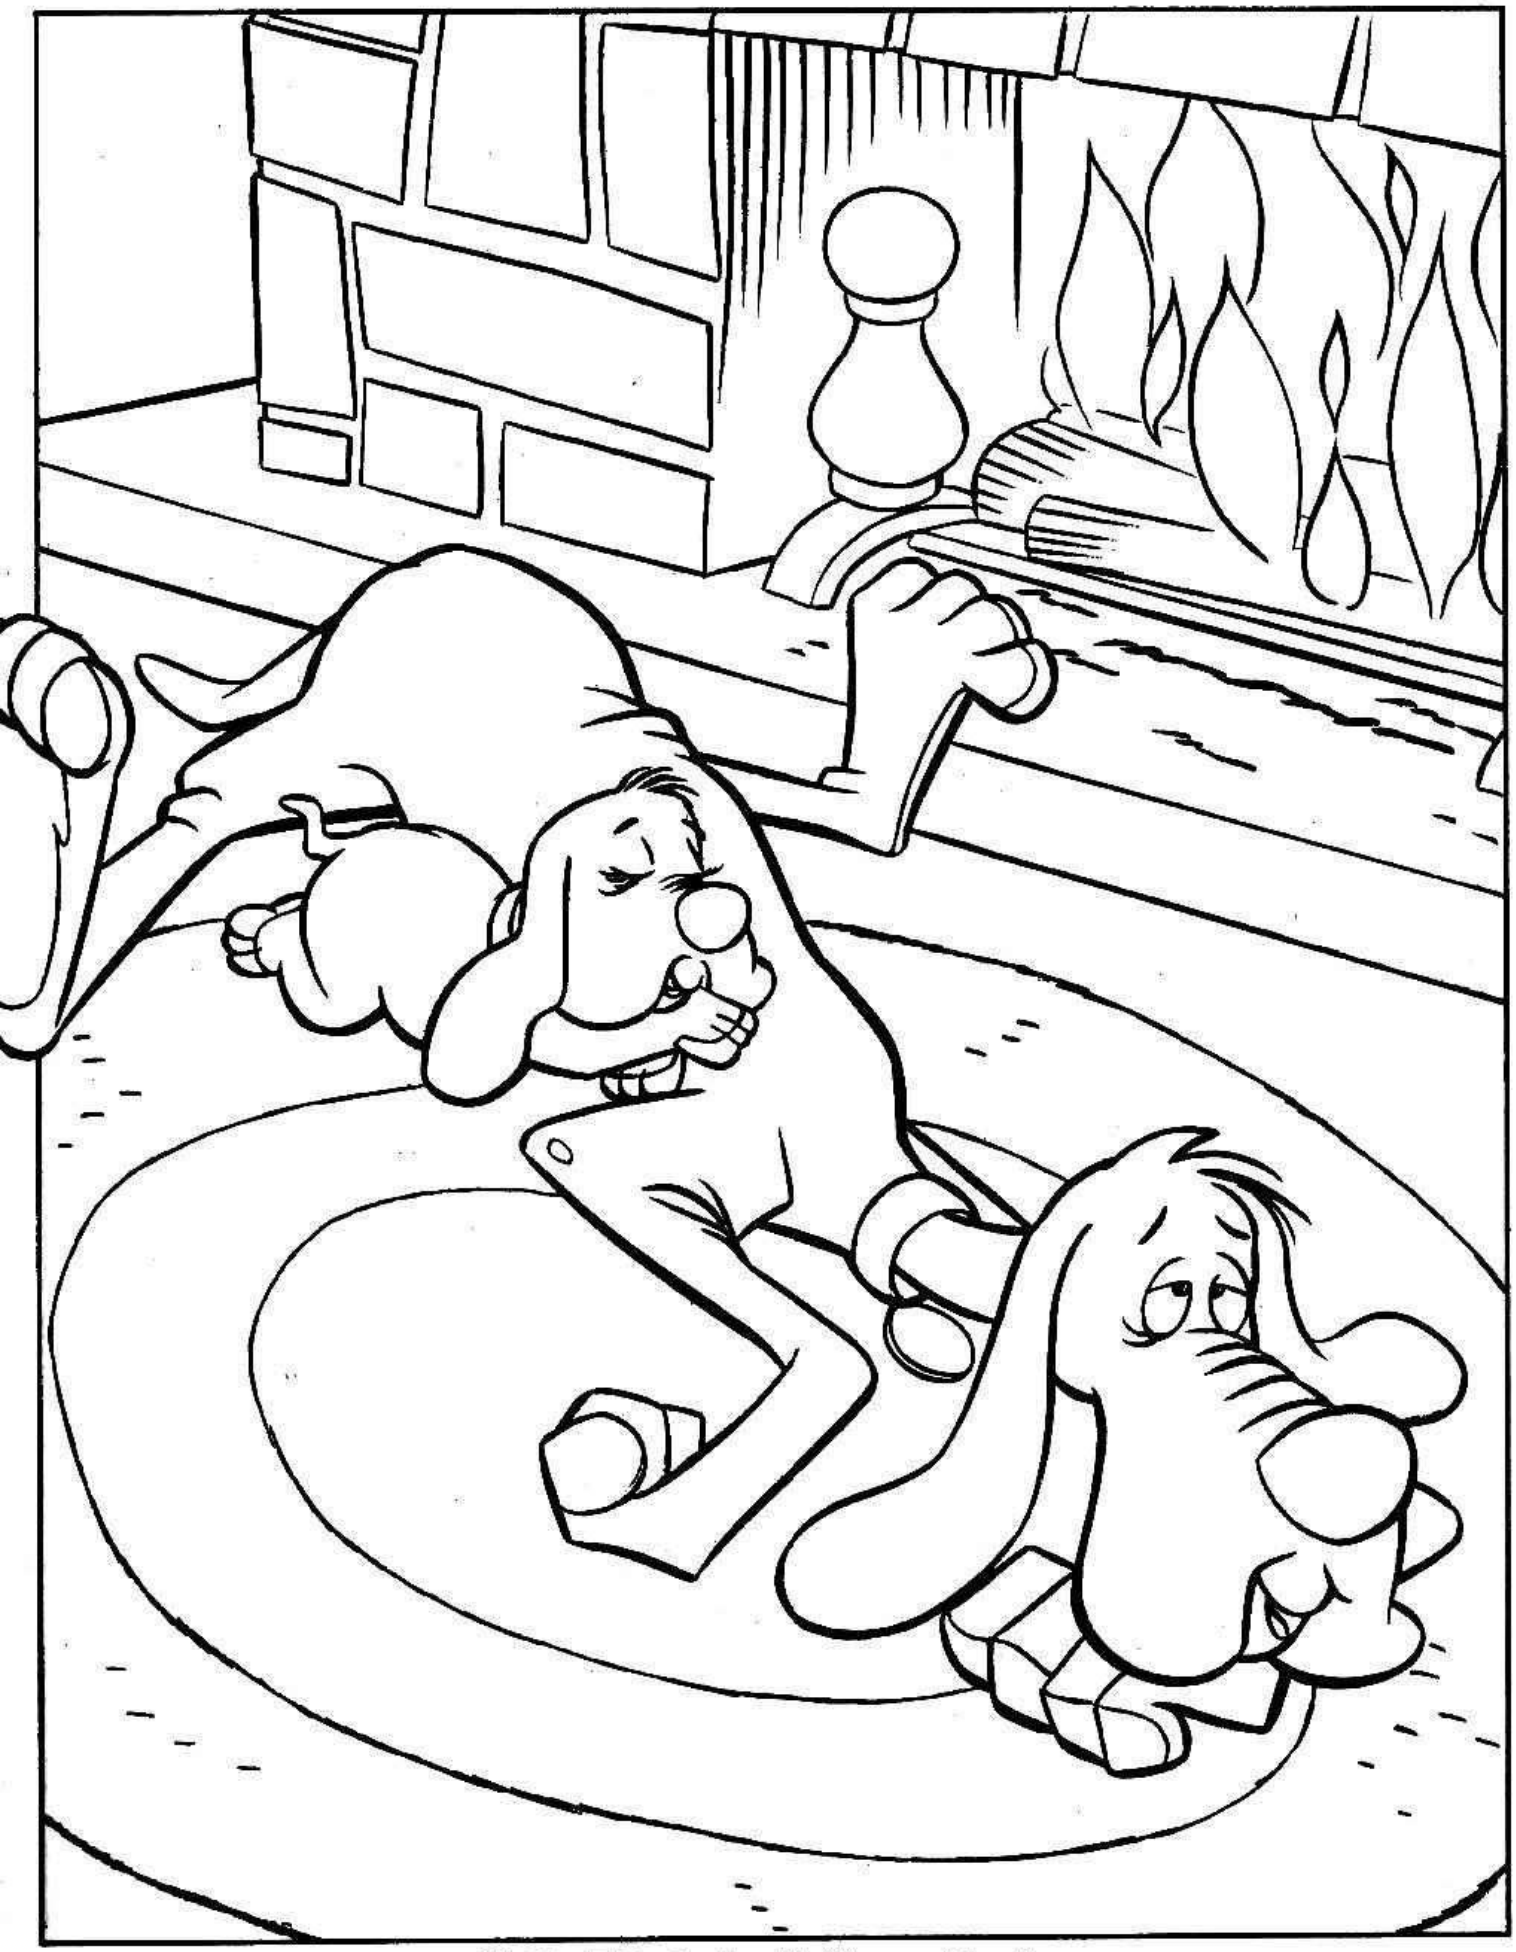
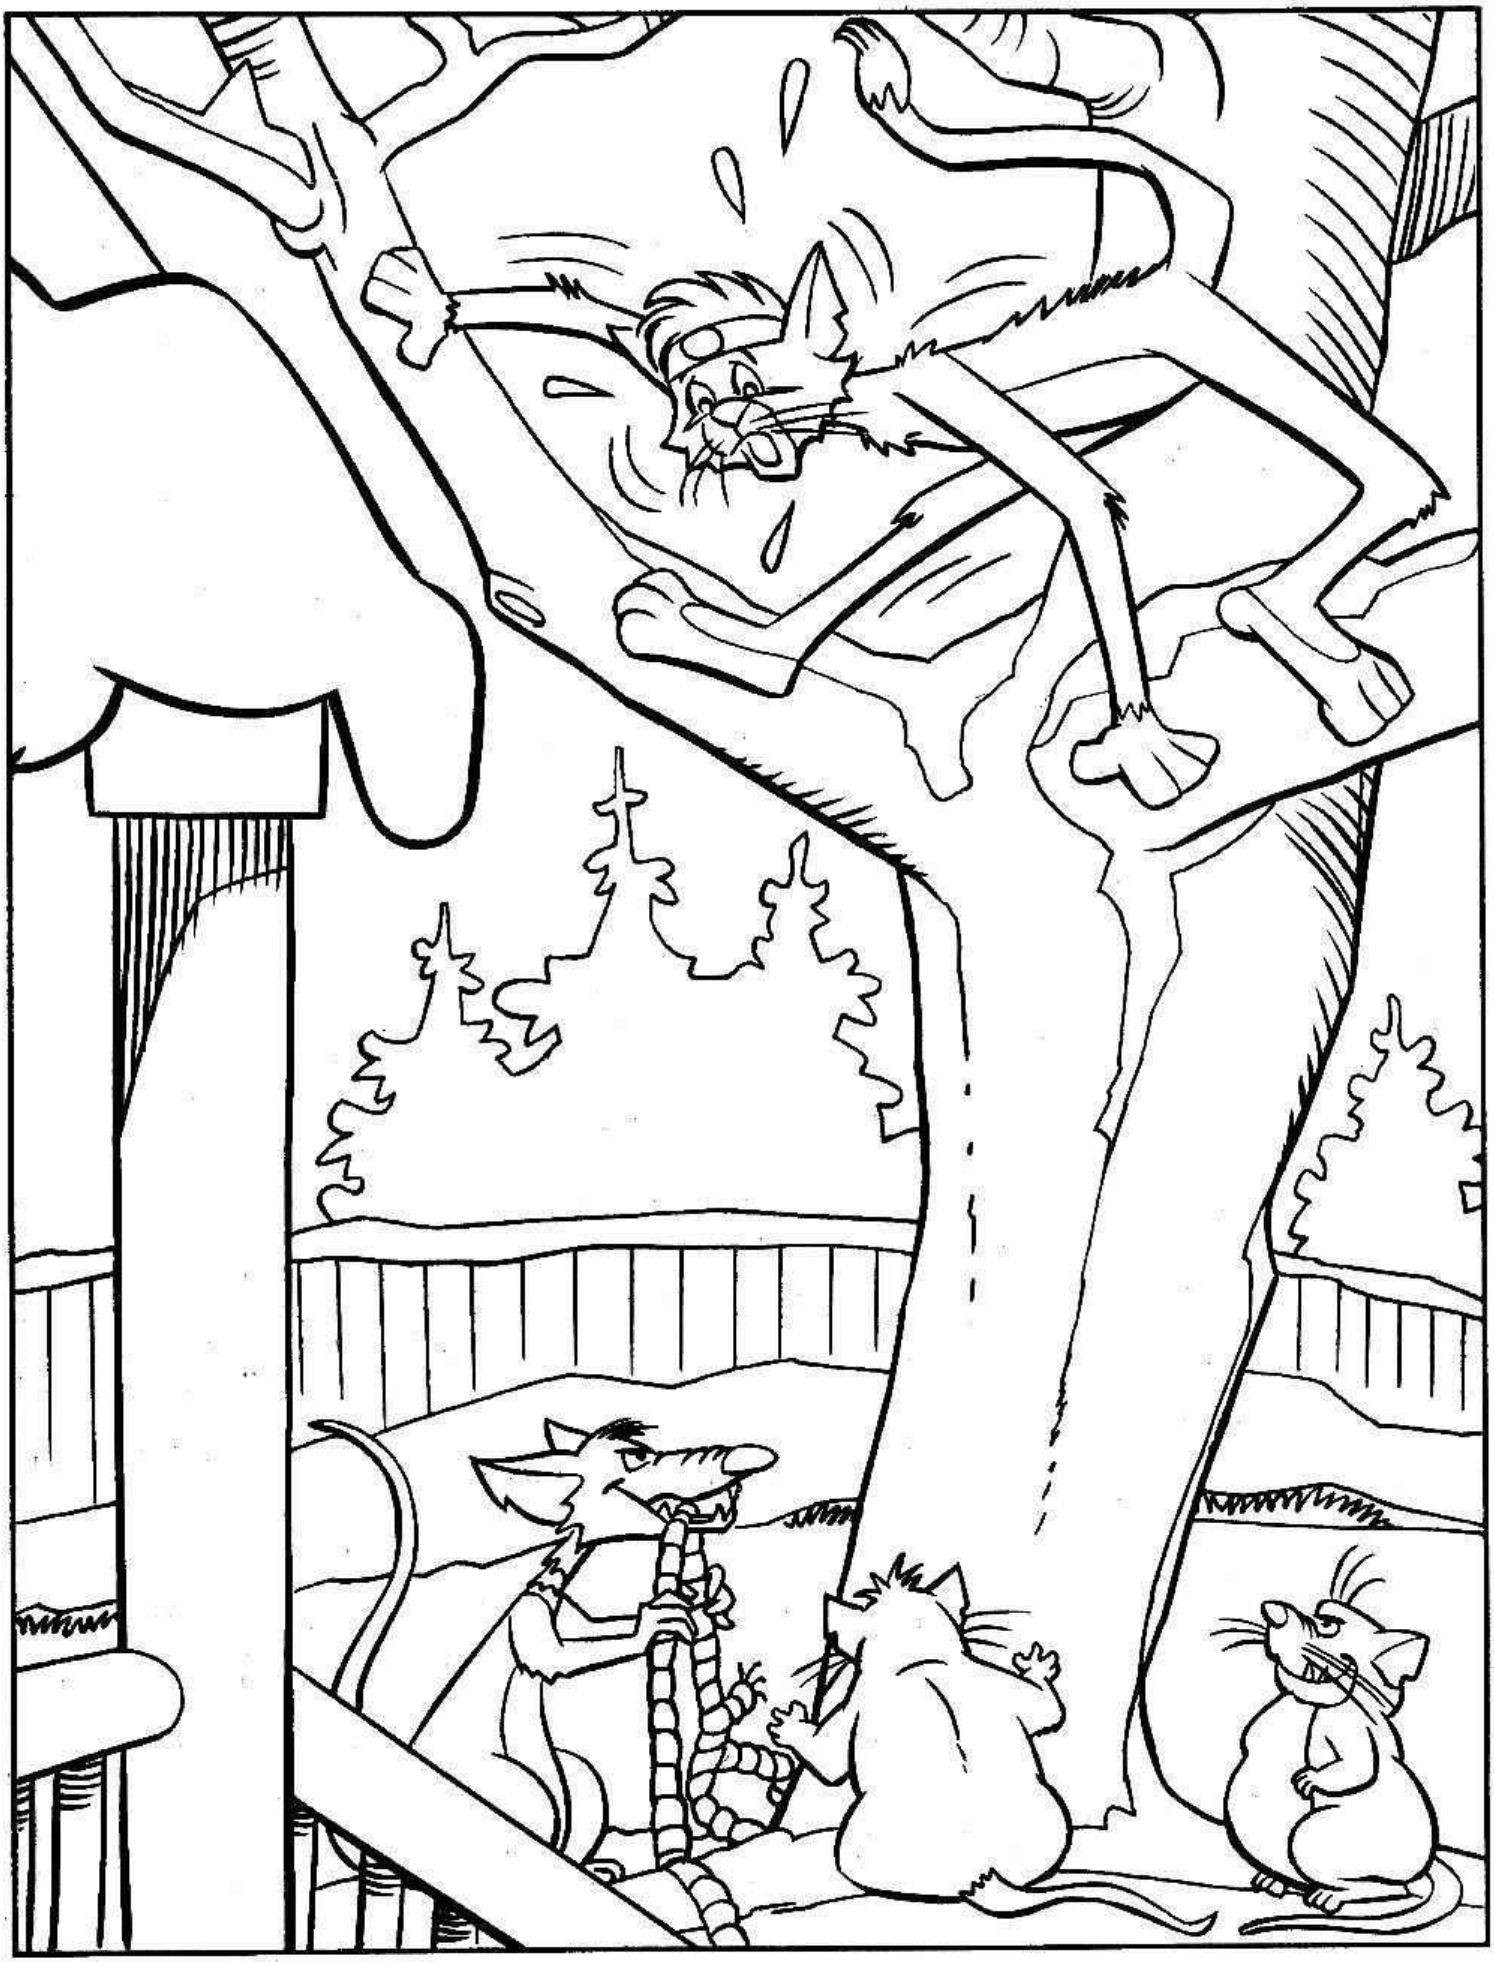
Foofur and the gang are enjoying a lazy day.



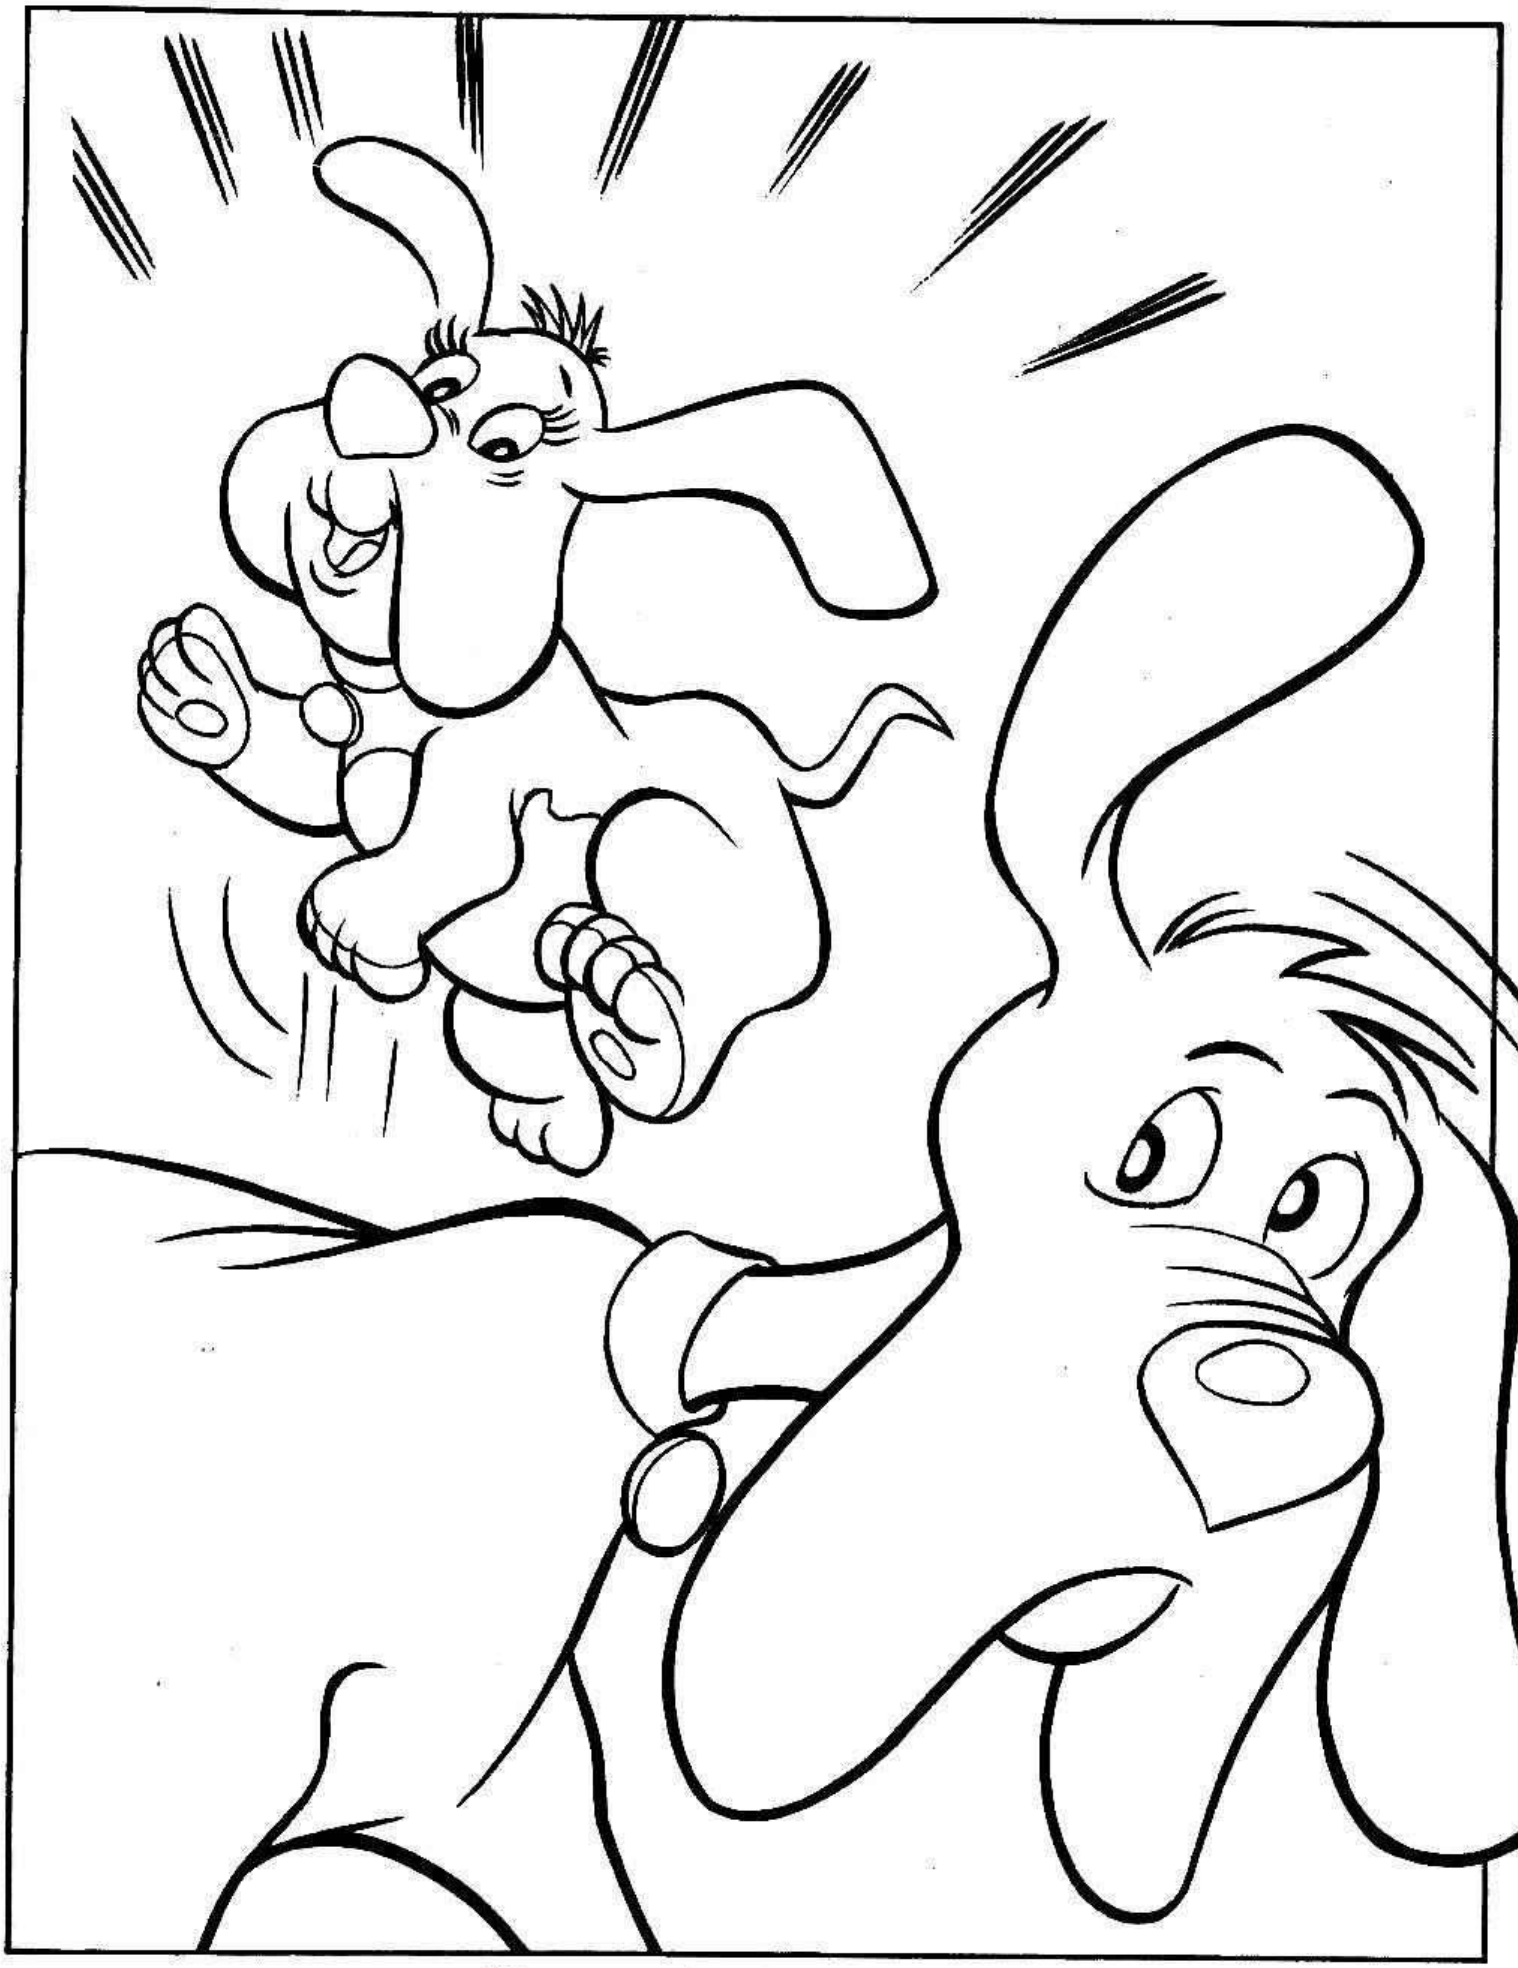
"Ahh. This is the life!" says Foofur.

But, poor Fencer never gets a rest from Sam, Chucky and Baby—those nasty Rat Brothers.

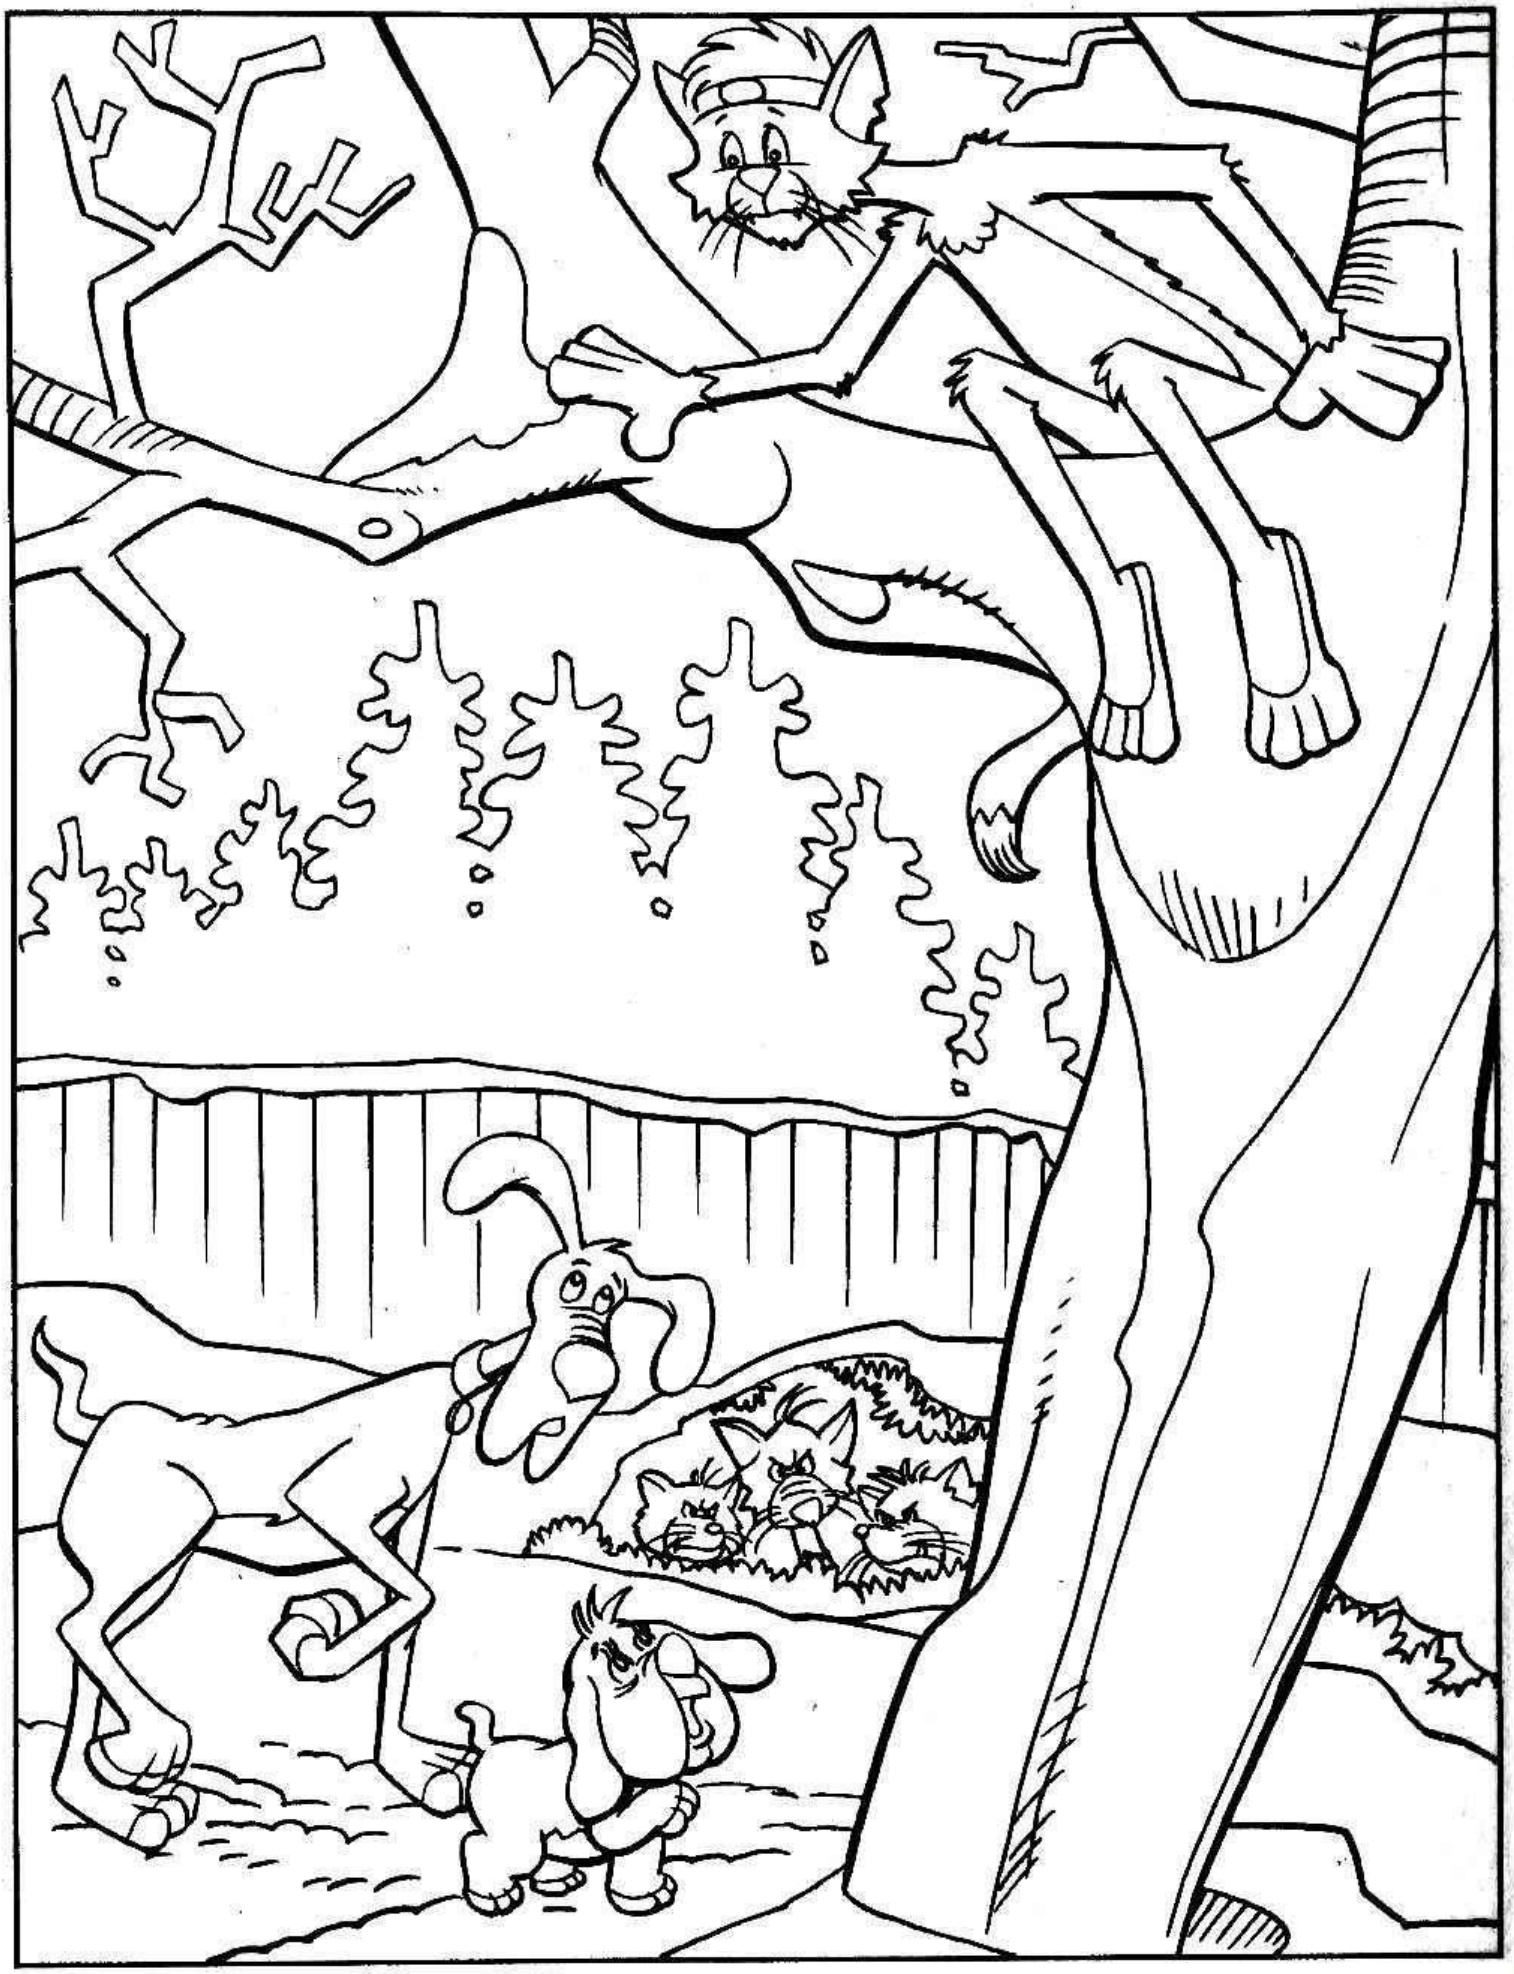


"Life would be pur-r-r-fect if it weren't for those pesky r-r-rodents!"

Foofur would help if he could. But how?



"I have an idea, Uncle Foofur!"



"What you need is, well, like a mouse trap." says Rocki.

Fencer thinks what he really needs is a super-duper kung-fu trap.

Uh-oh. It looks like Mrs. Escrow and her trouble-making dog, Pepe, are bringing new buyers to the house.

Red alert, troops!

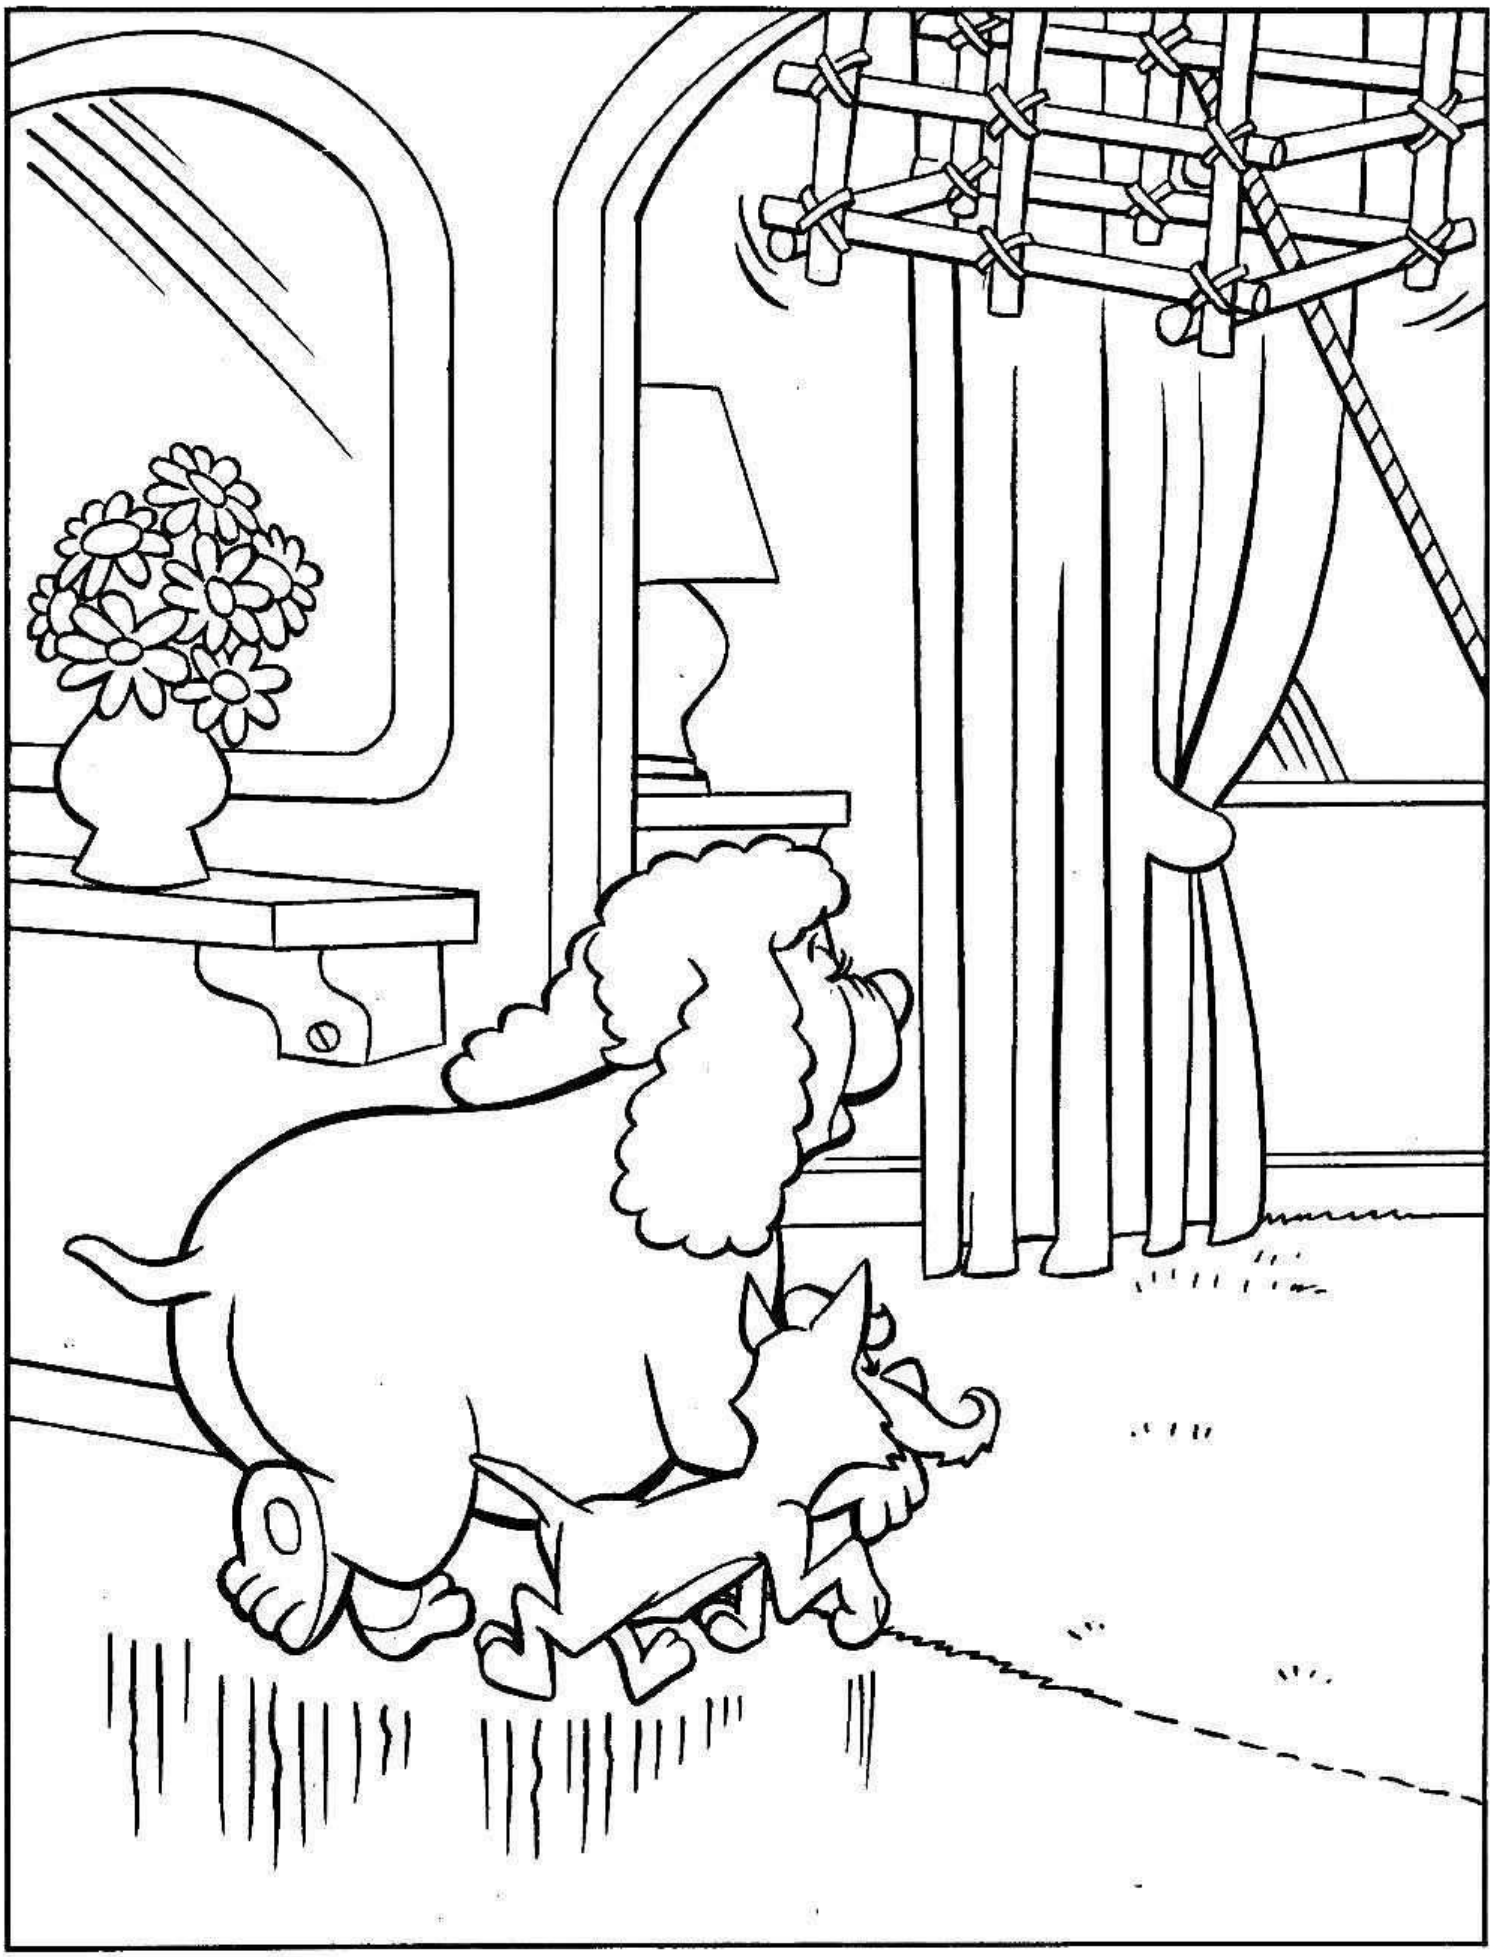
Mr. and Mrs. Fussbudget can afford any house they want. And this one looks just right.

"We just might take it . . . so long as there are no kids in the neighborhood.
I can't stand kids and their pranks."

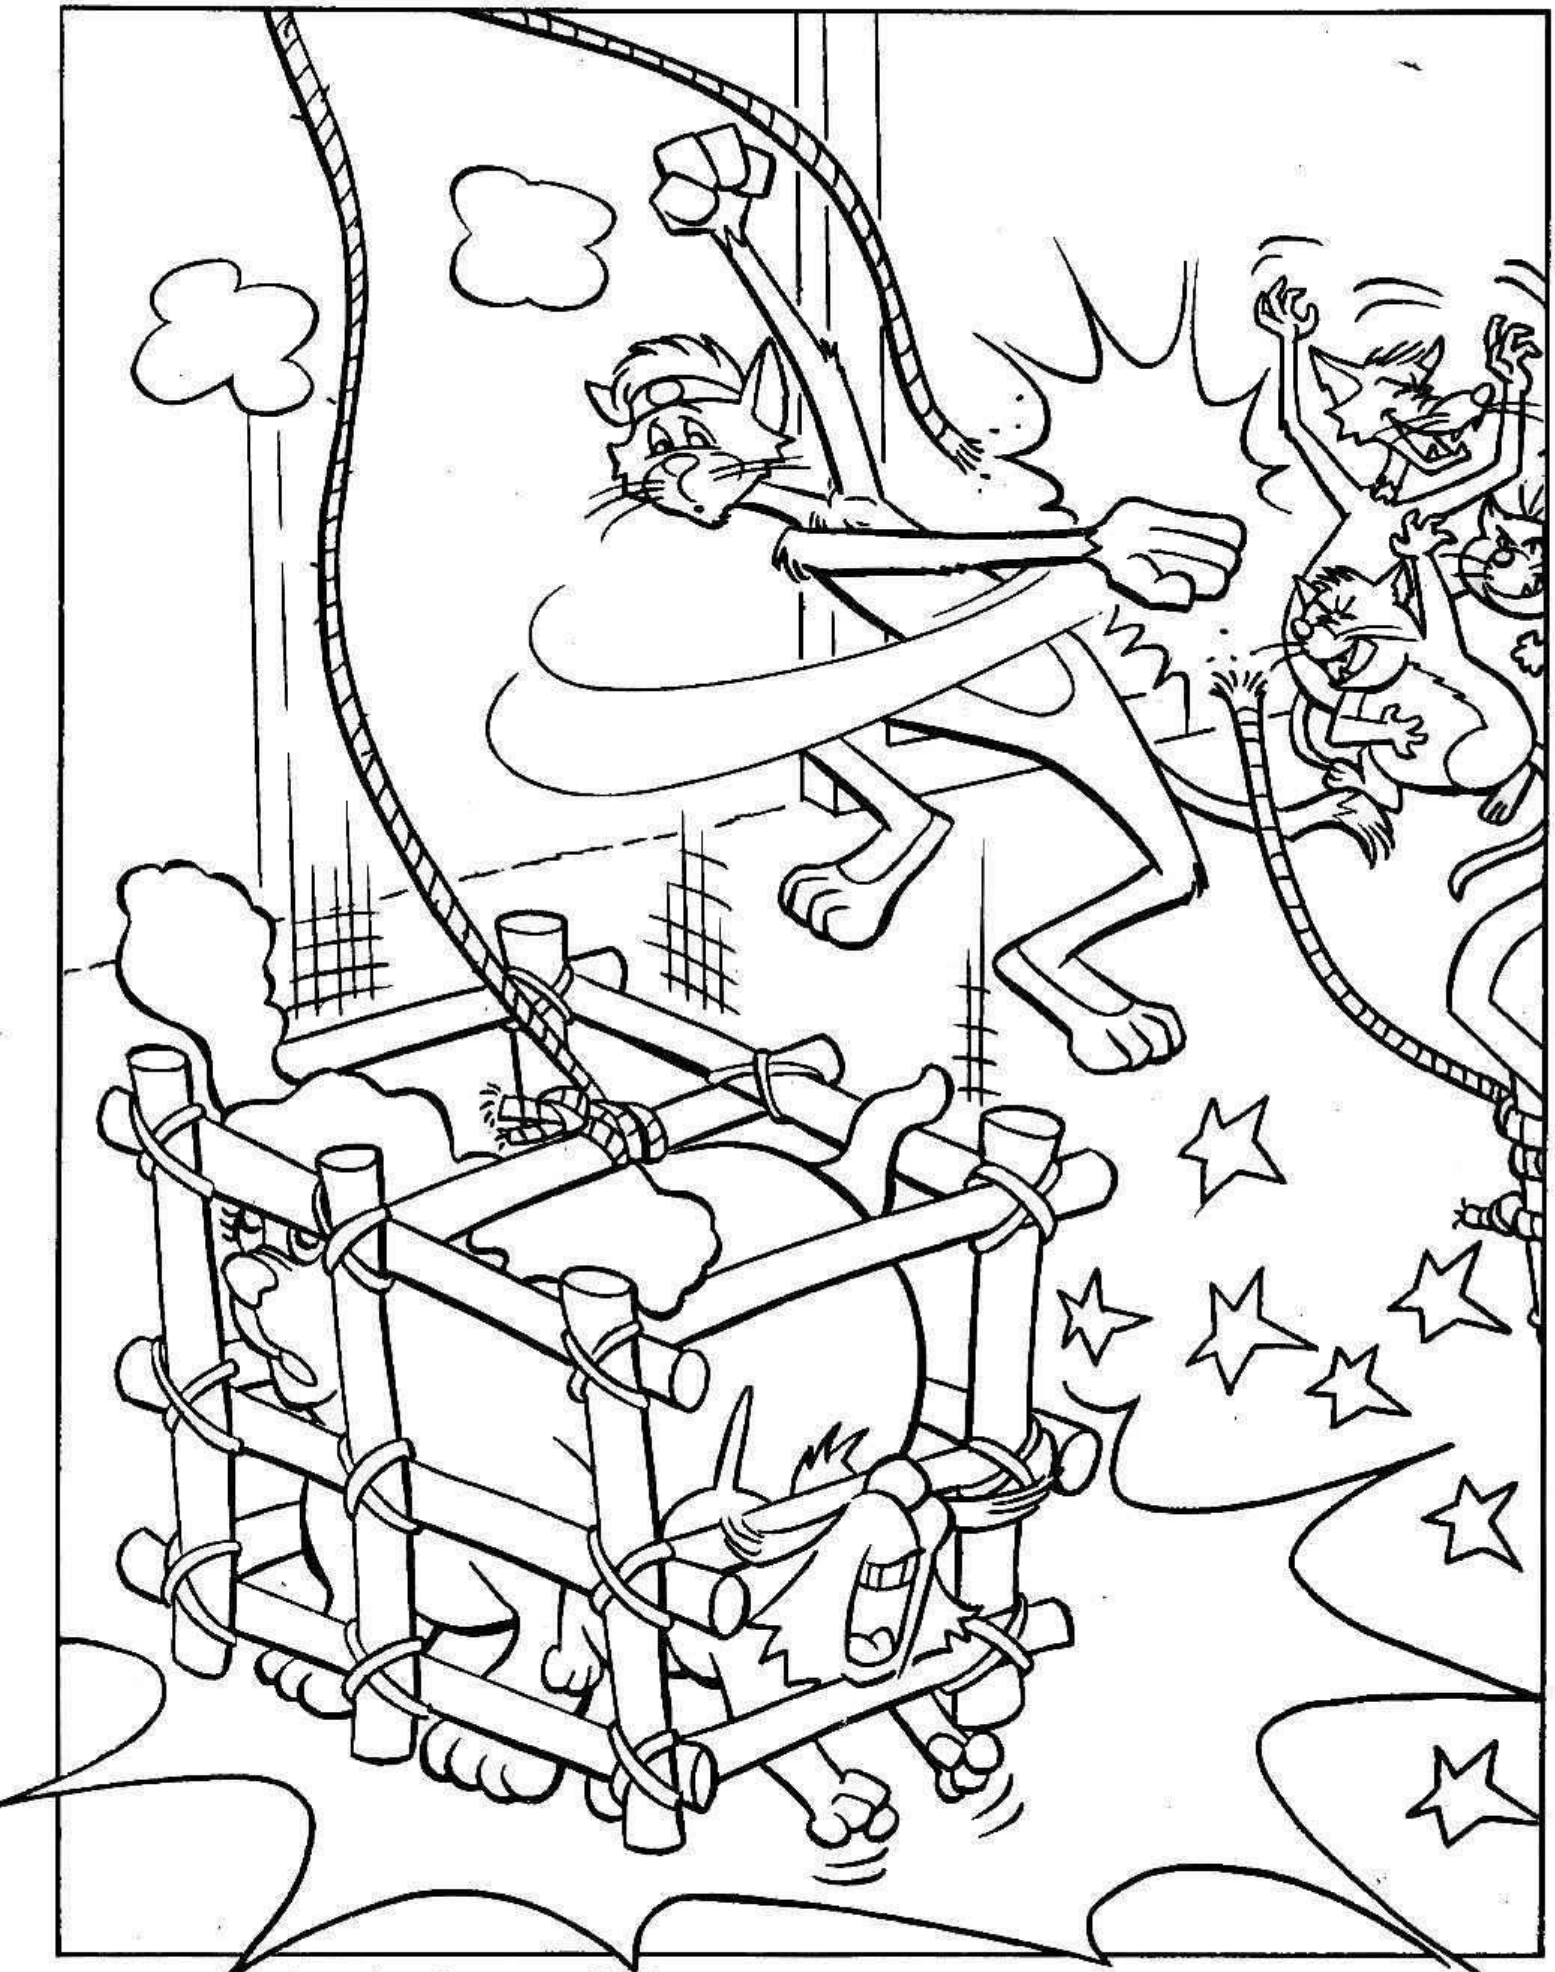
"They'll be back," sighs Hazel. "We might as well start house hunting ourselves."

"She's right, you know. My dear Hazel is always right. She's 'van-tastic'!"

"Wow eeya! This is the baddest kung-fu rat trap there is!"

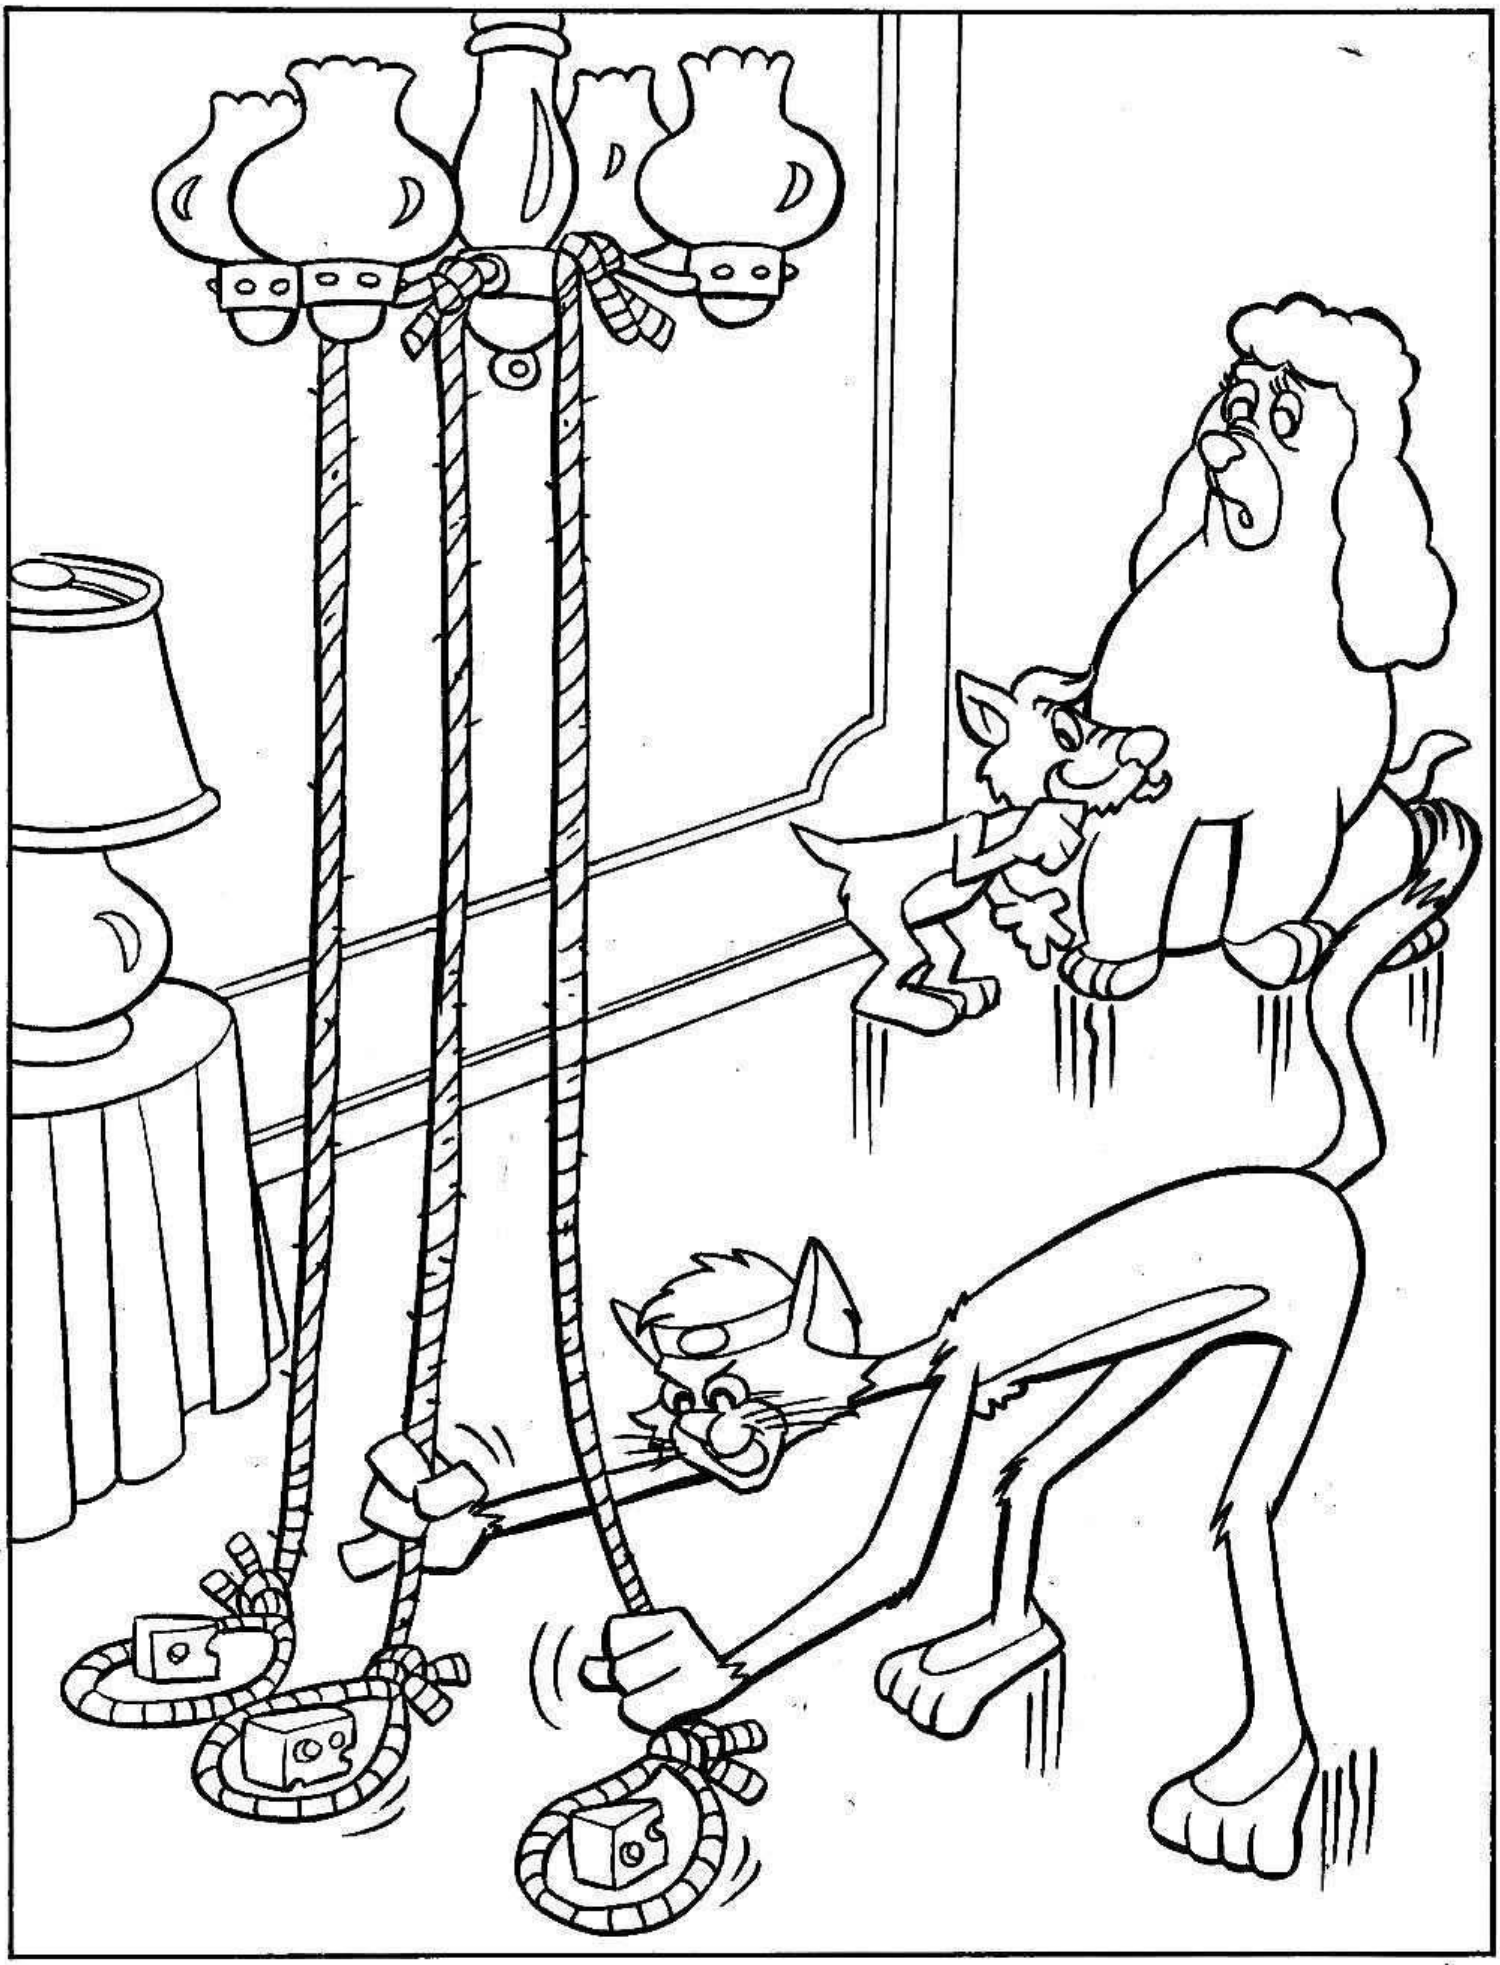


Oh no, Hazel! Fritz-Carlos! Watch out!

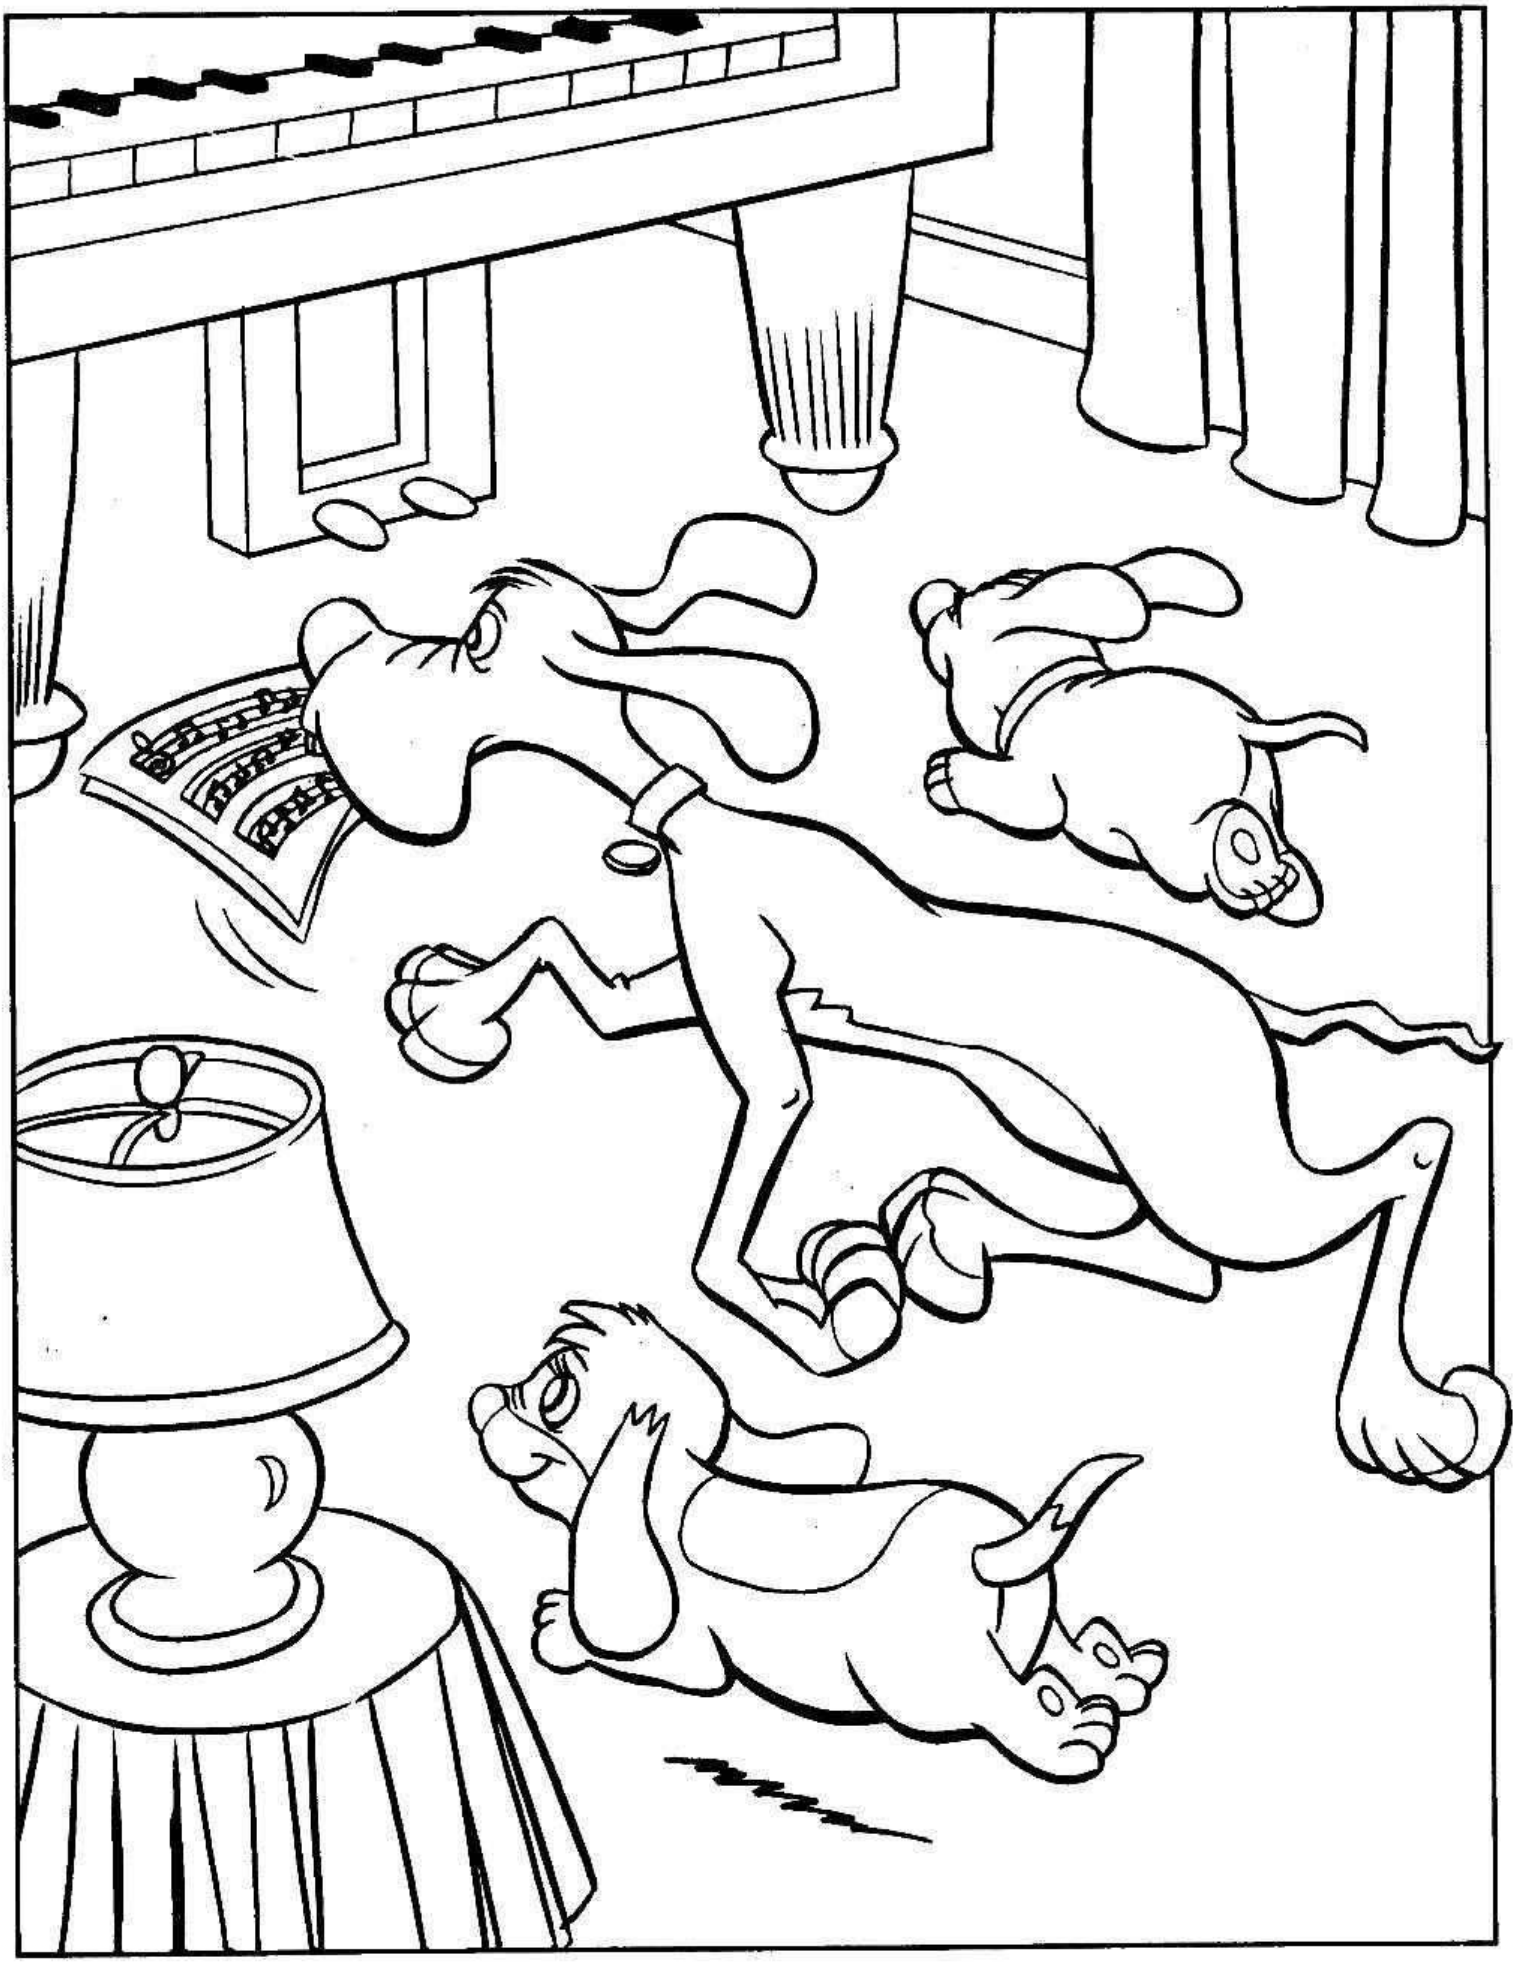


Chucky, Sam, and Baby escape, but the trap works just fine.

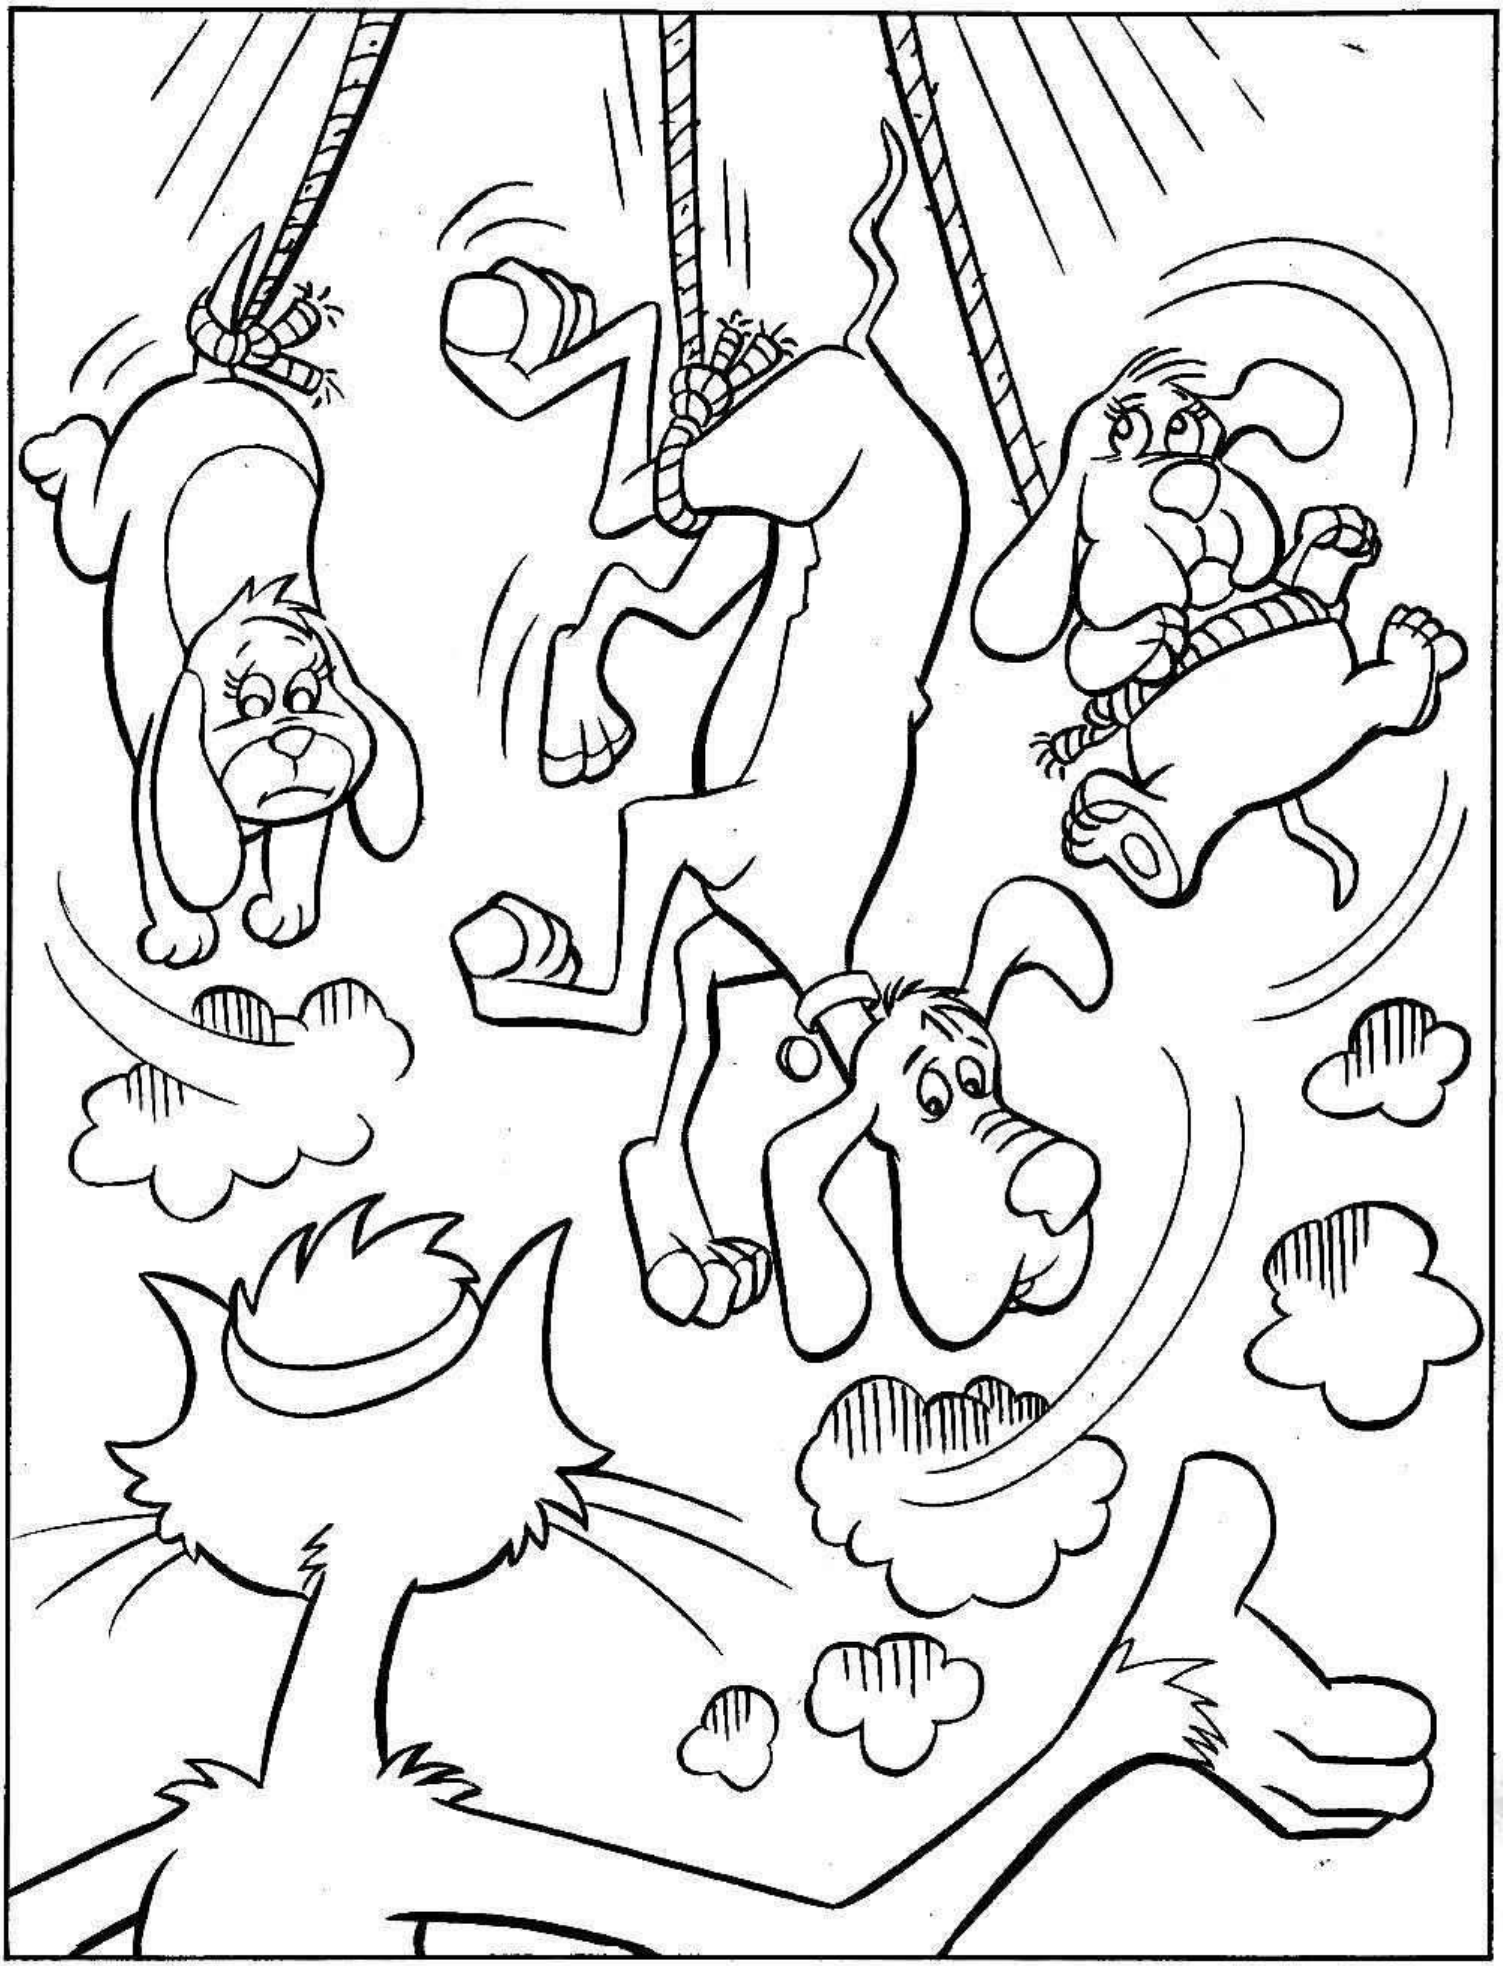
If at first you don't succeed . . .



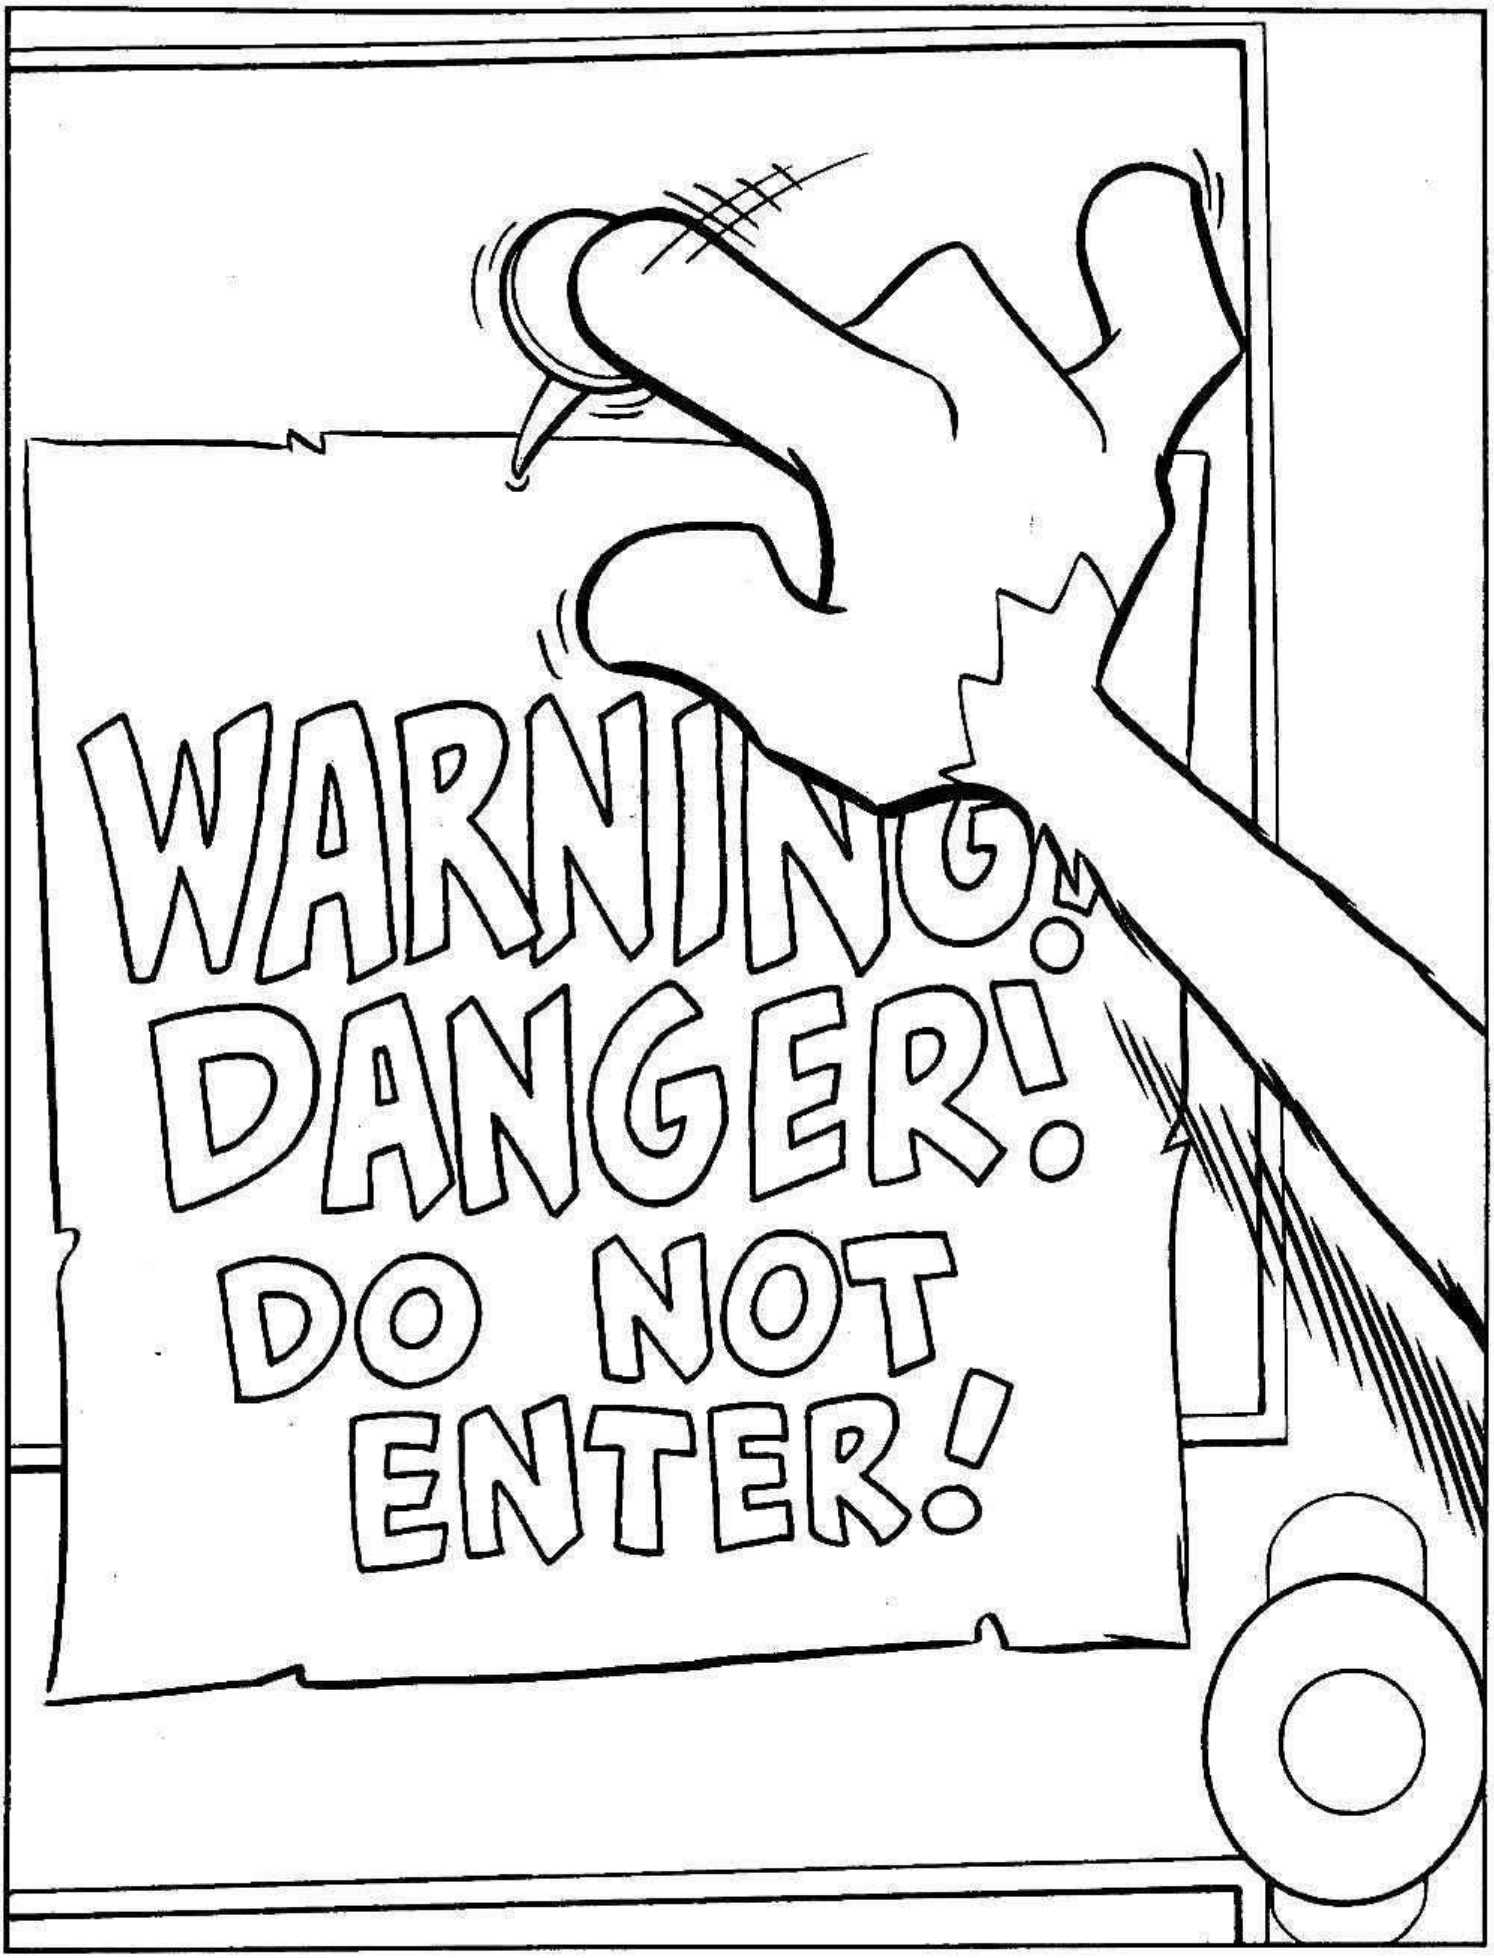
. . . bait that trap again!



Foofur, this is no time to play a tune for Dolly.



"Hey man, everything's cool," says Fencer. "Just a slight miscalculation."

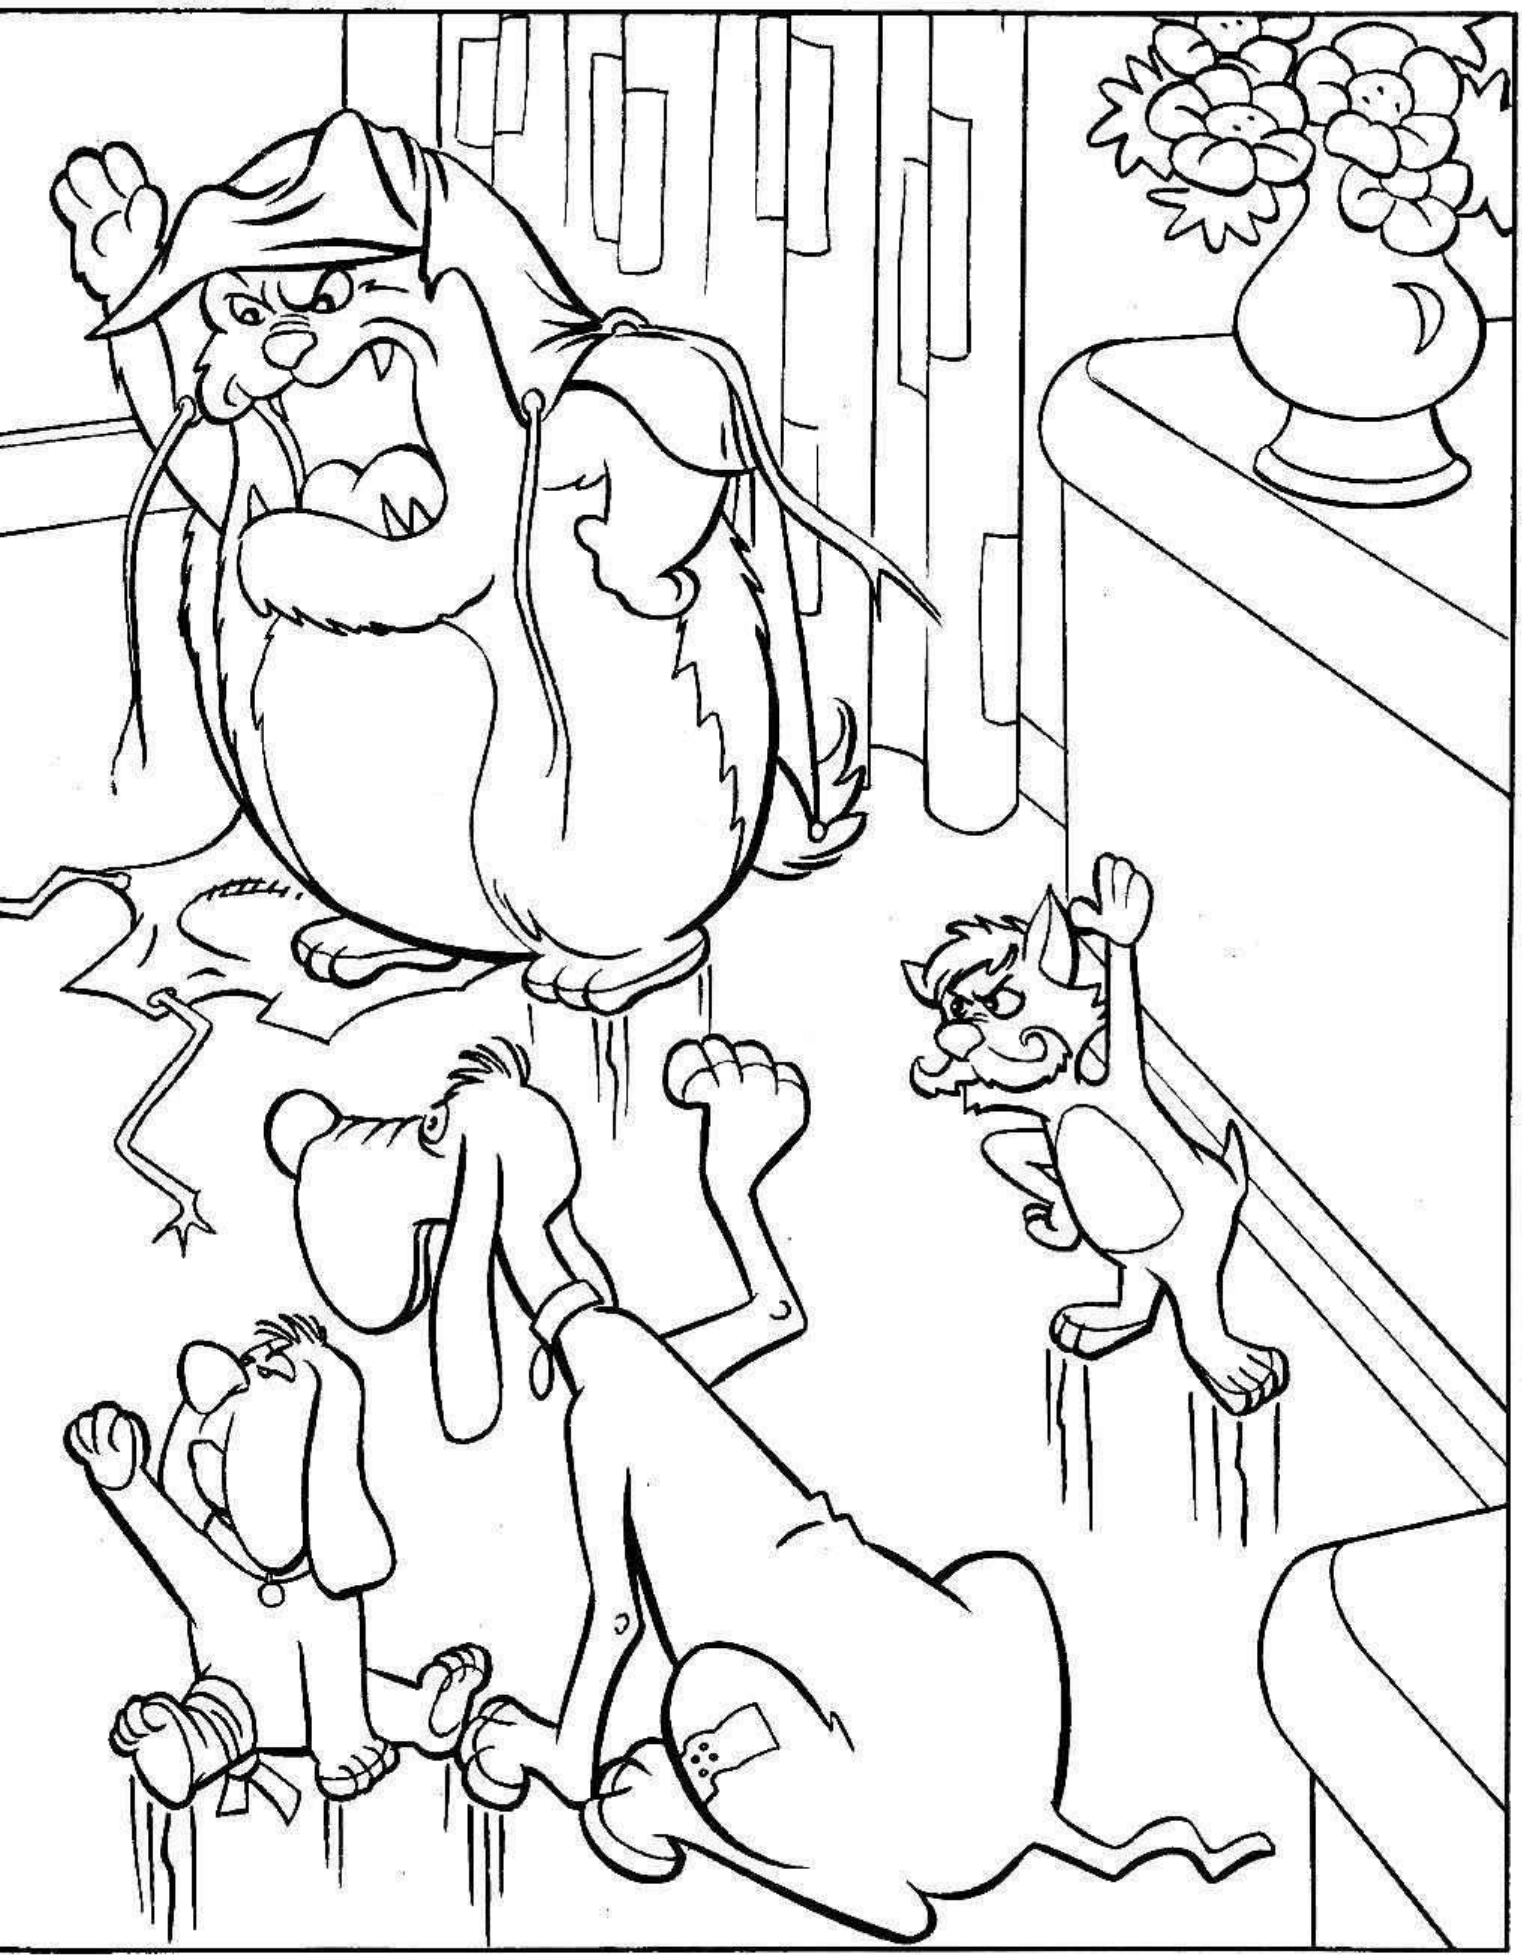


This time no one will get caught . . . except rats. "Rats can't read, can they?" wonders Rocki.

But these are three tricky rats.

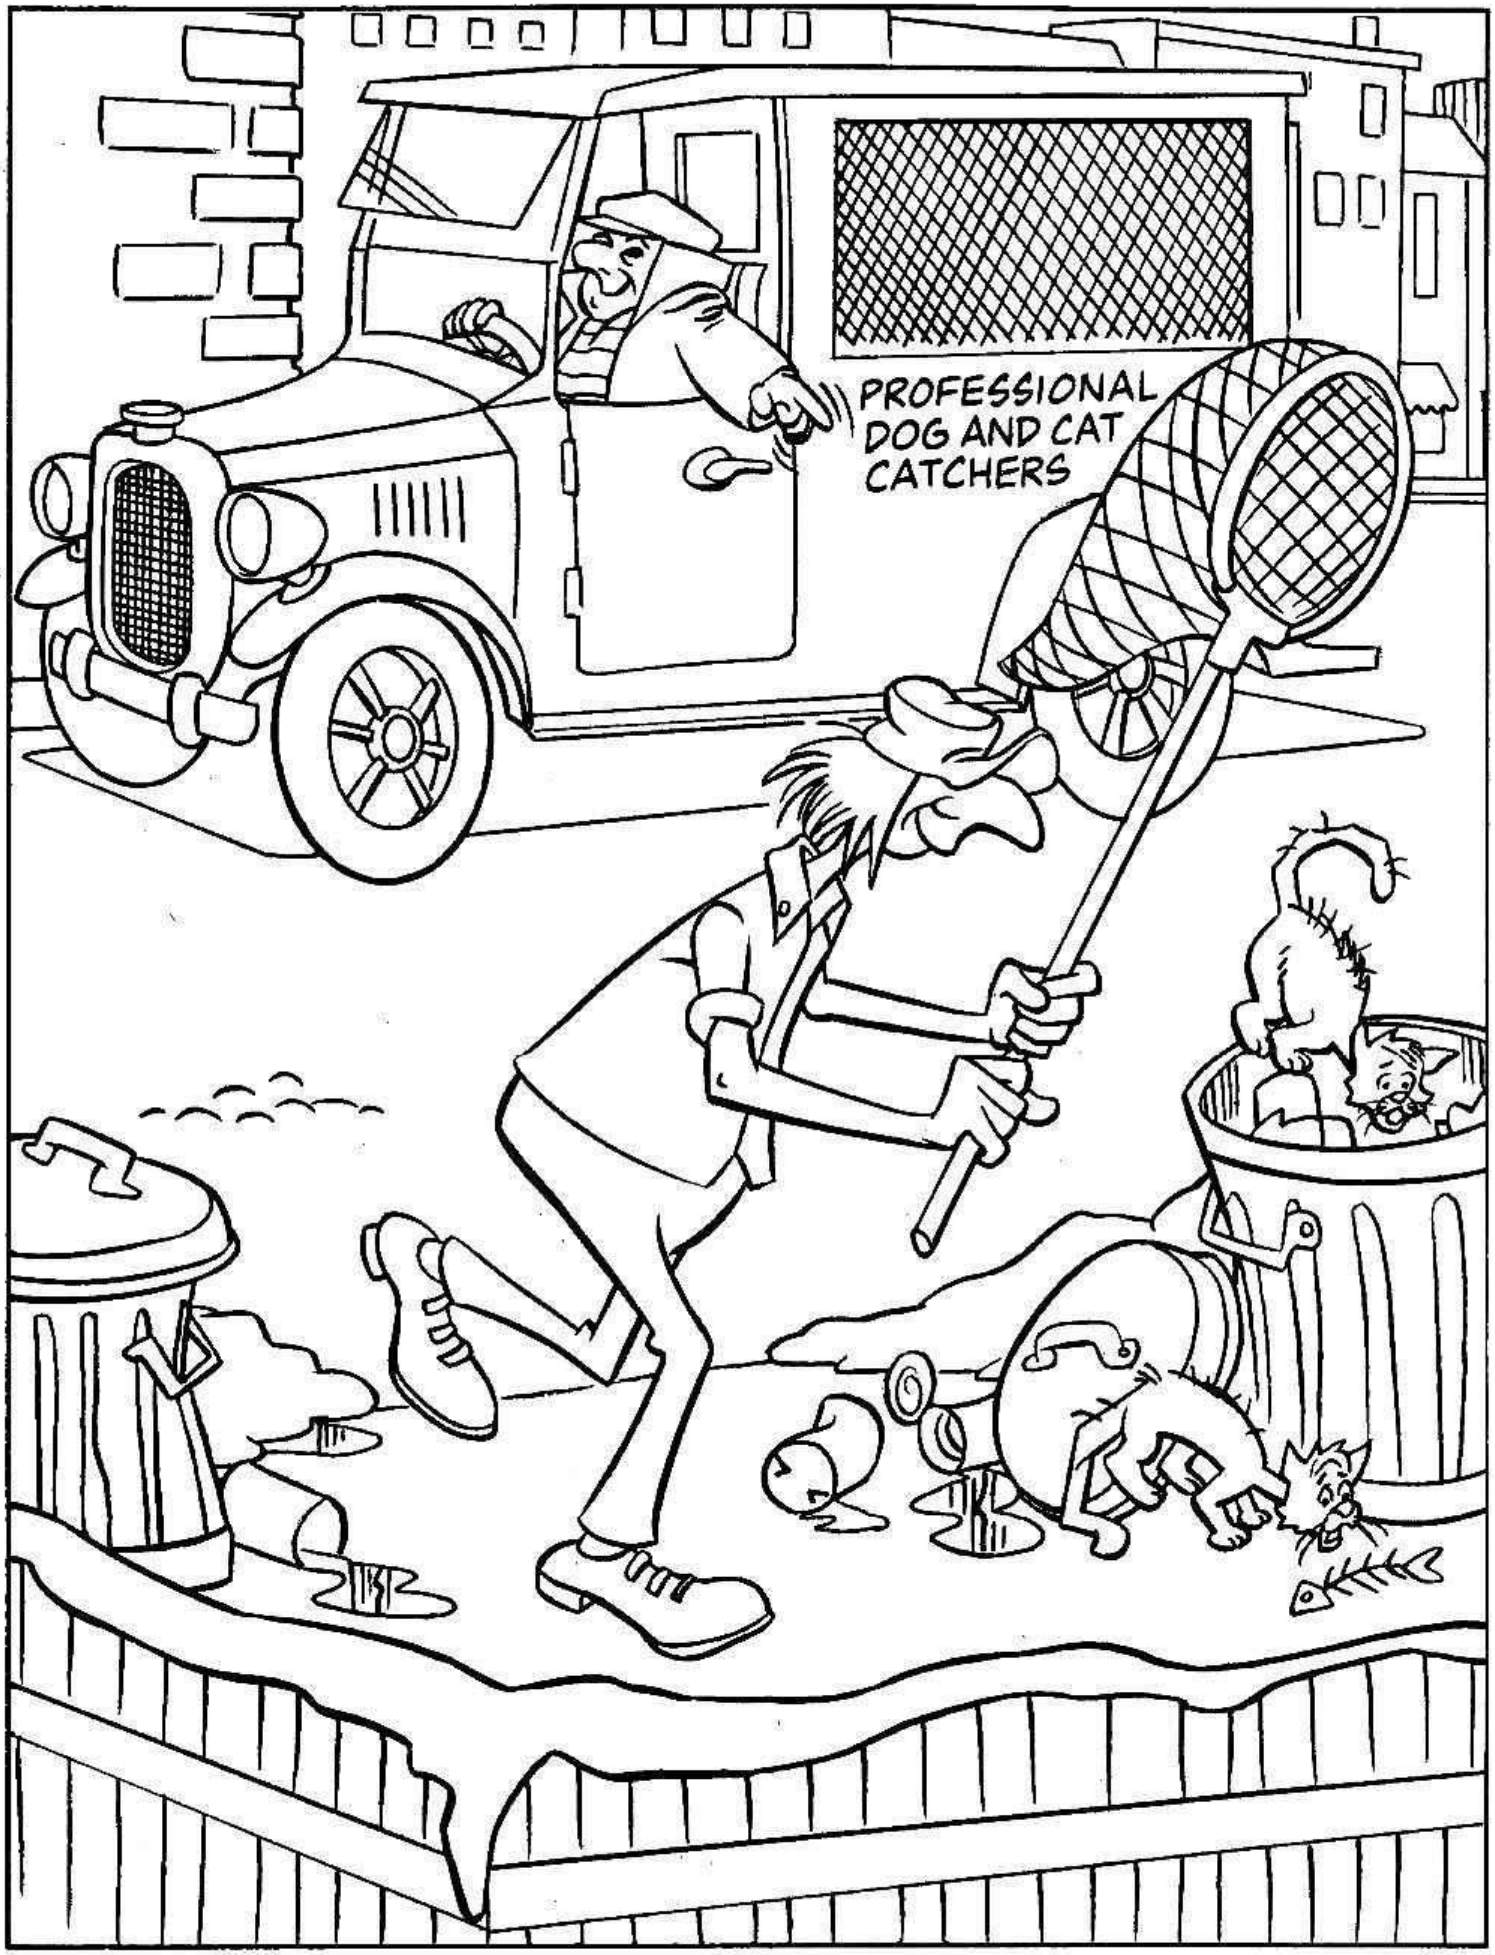
Oh, no! Not again! Louis and Annabell are in for a surprise.

Fencer is in deep trouble now.

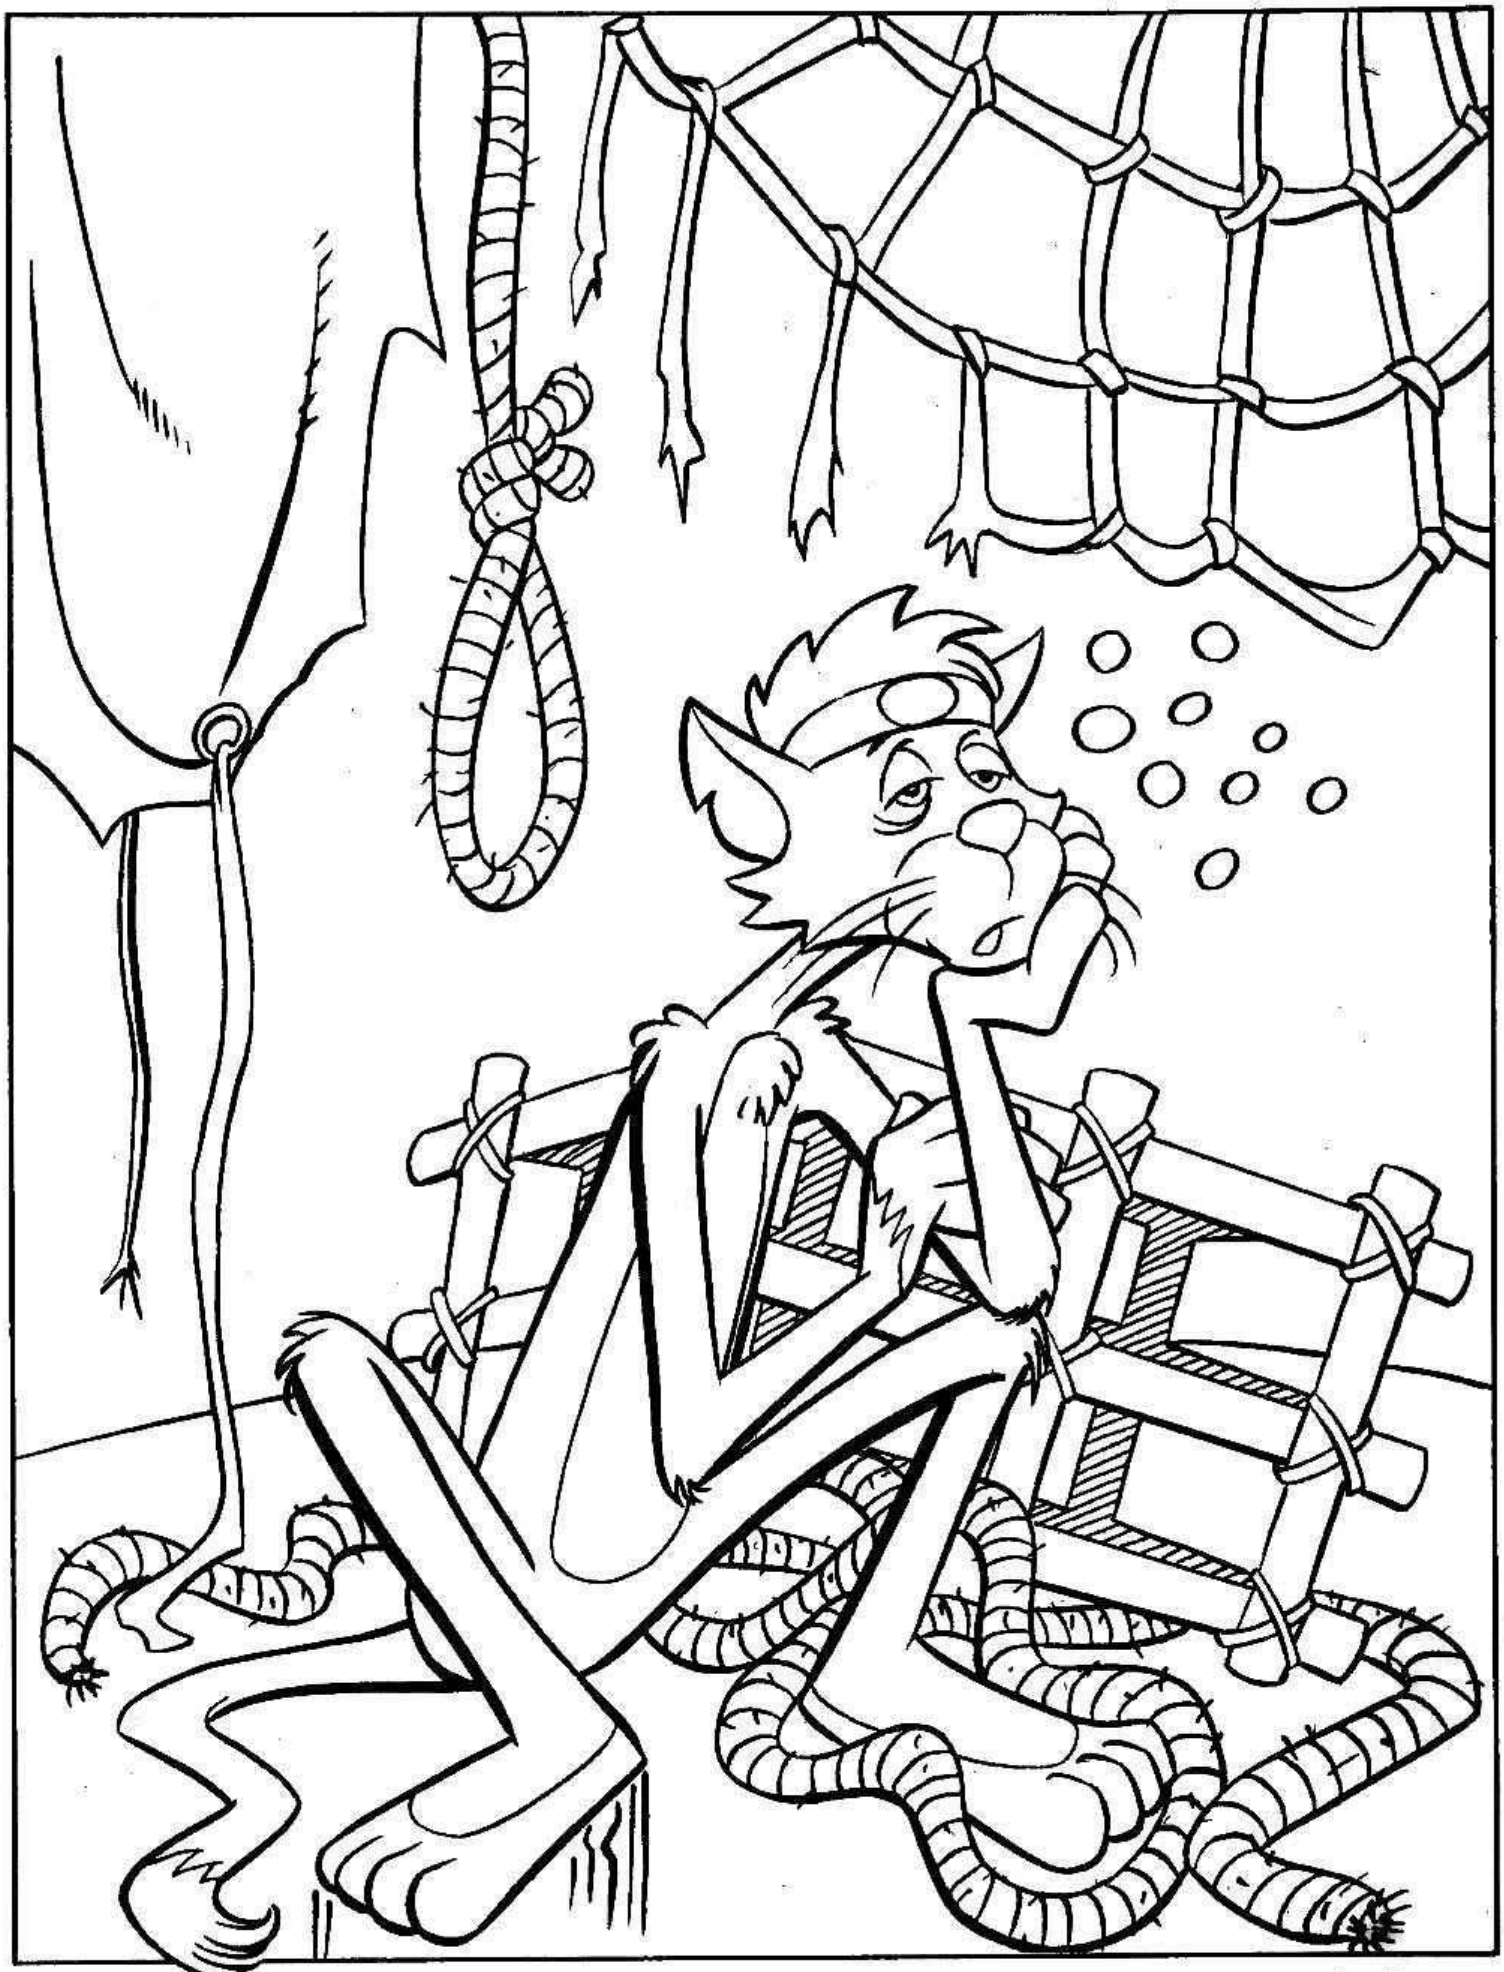


The family takes a vote.

The verdict is in. "Take down the trap and never build another—or else!" says Foofur.

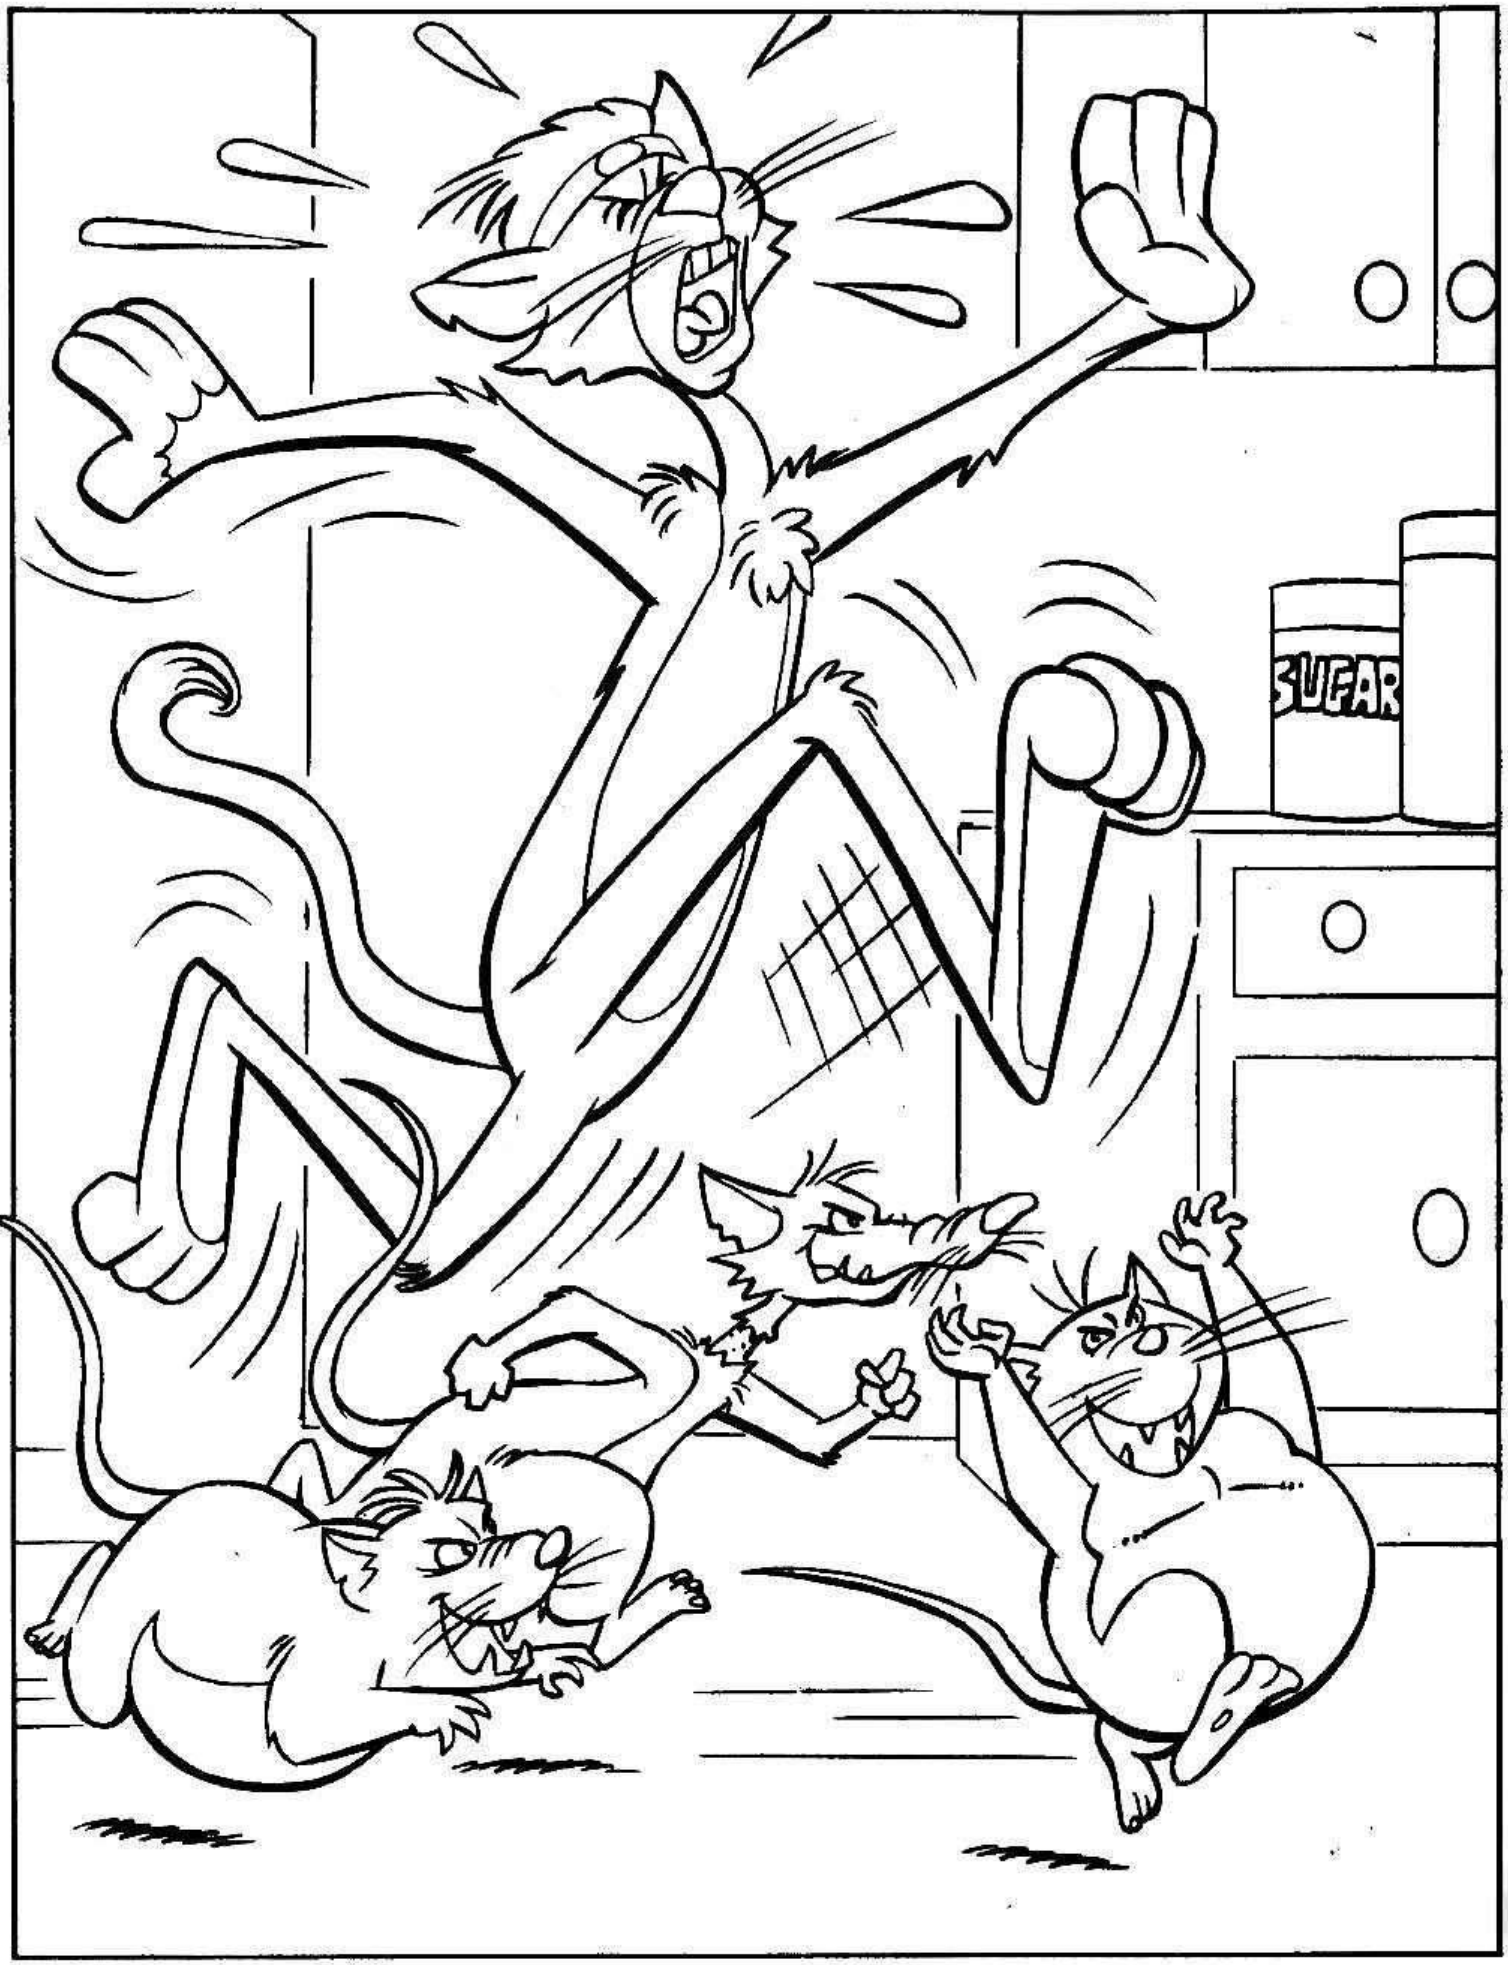


It's a cold, cruel world out there on your own.

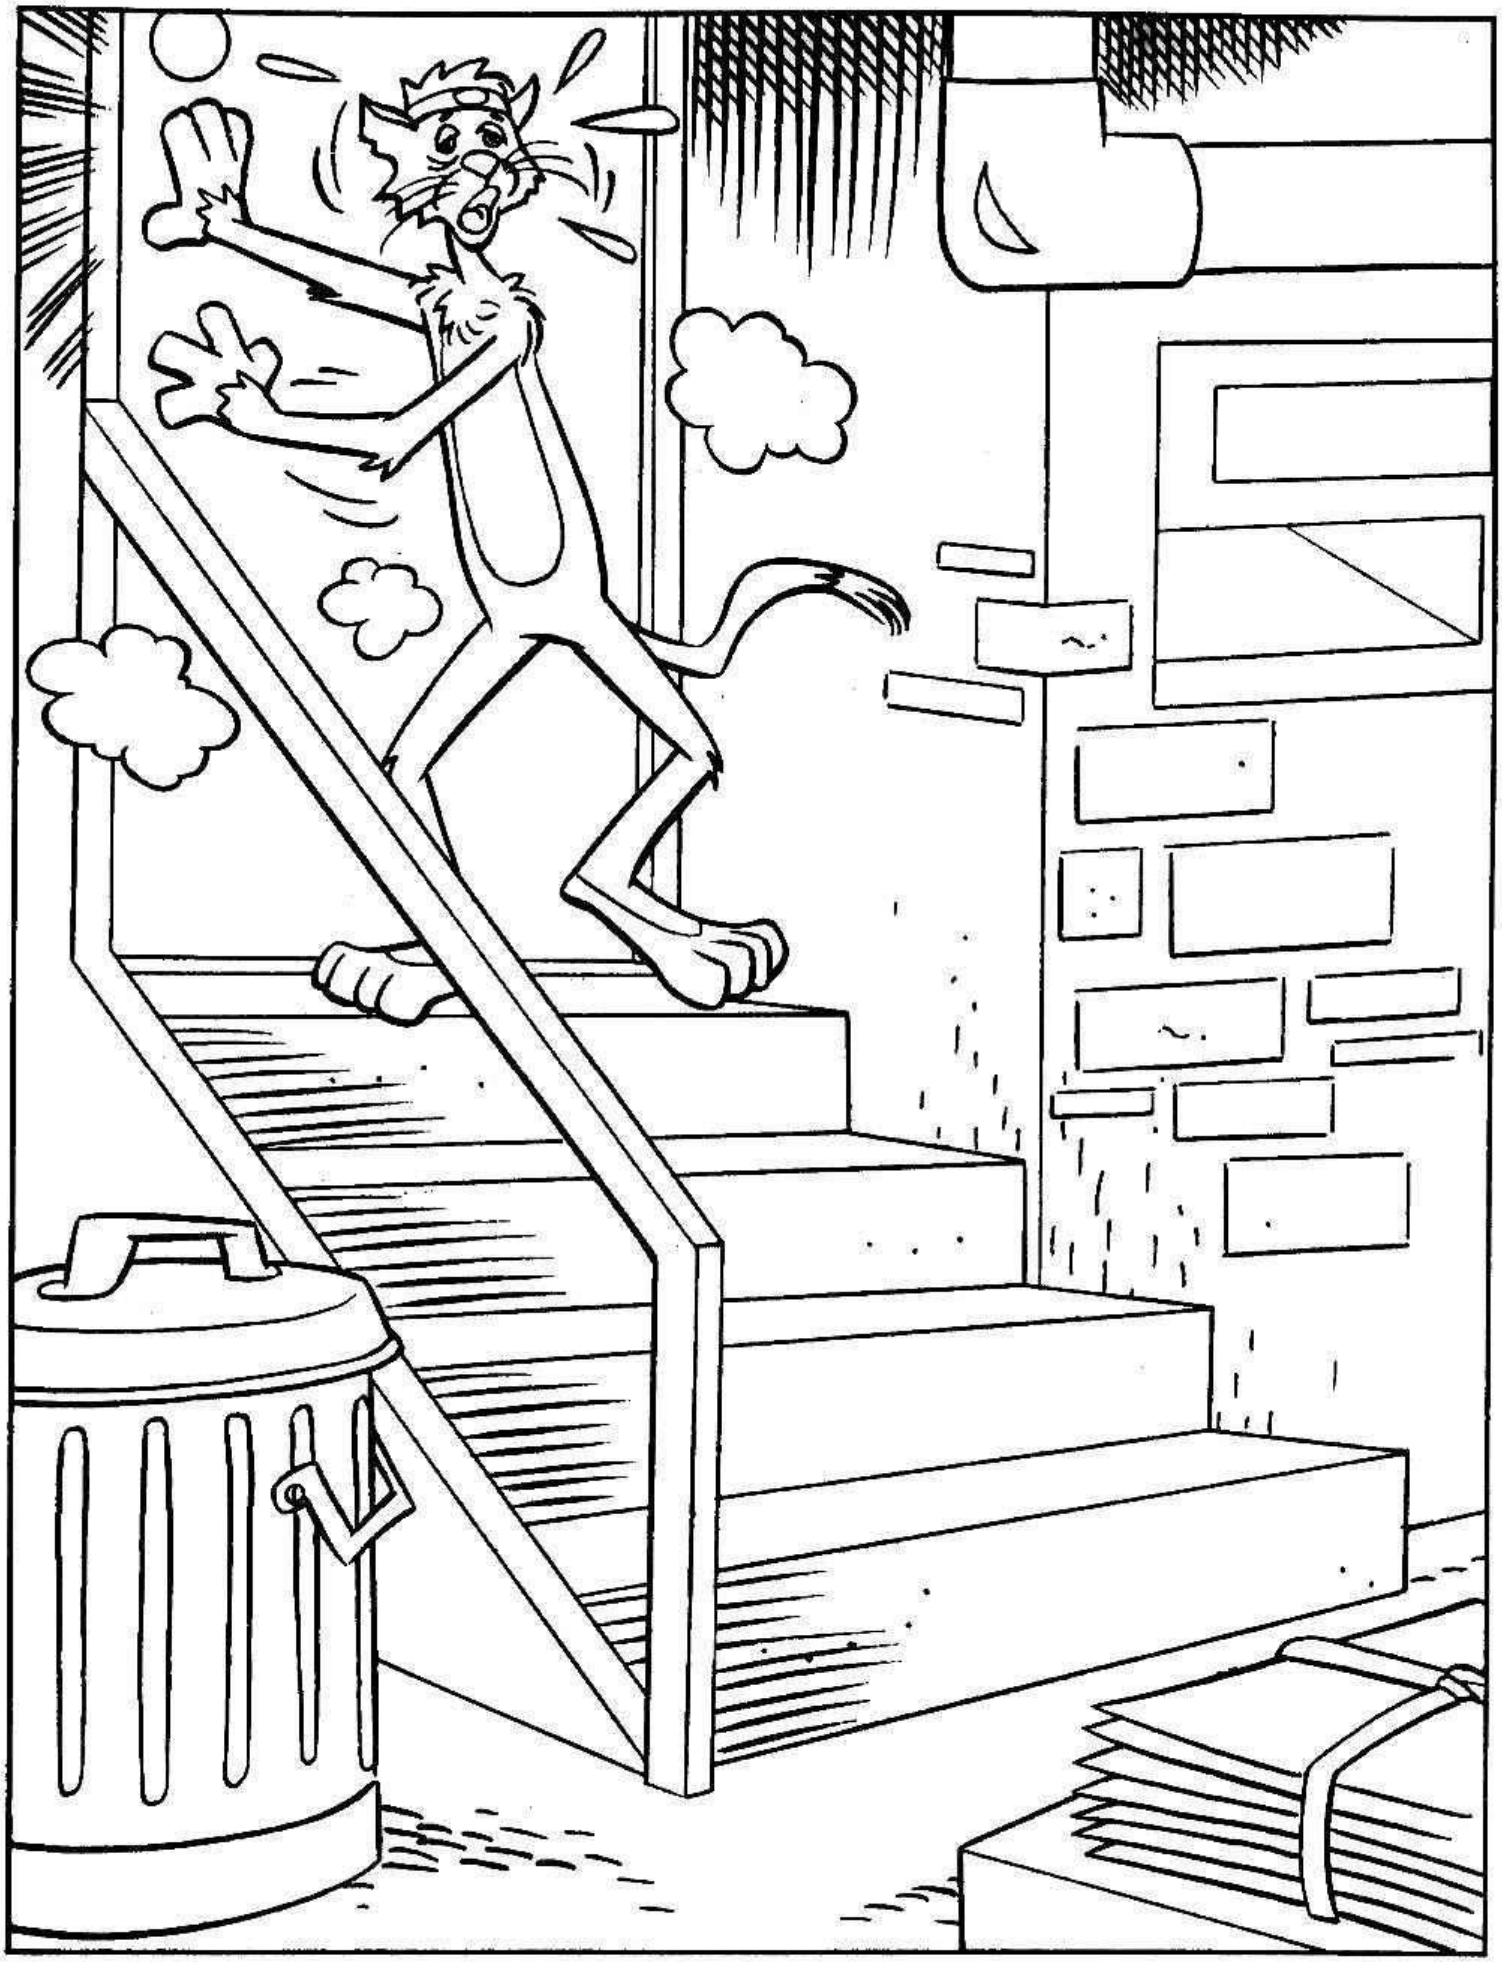


"I'm a failure," sighs Fencer. "This bad dude just can't do anything right."

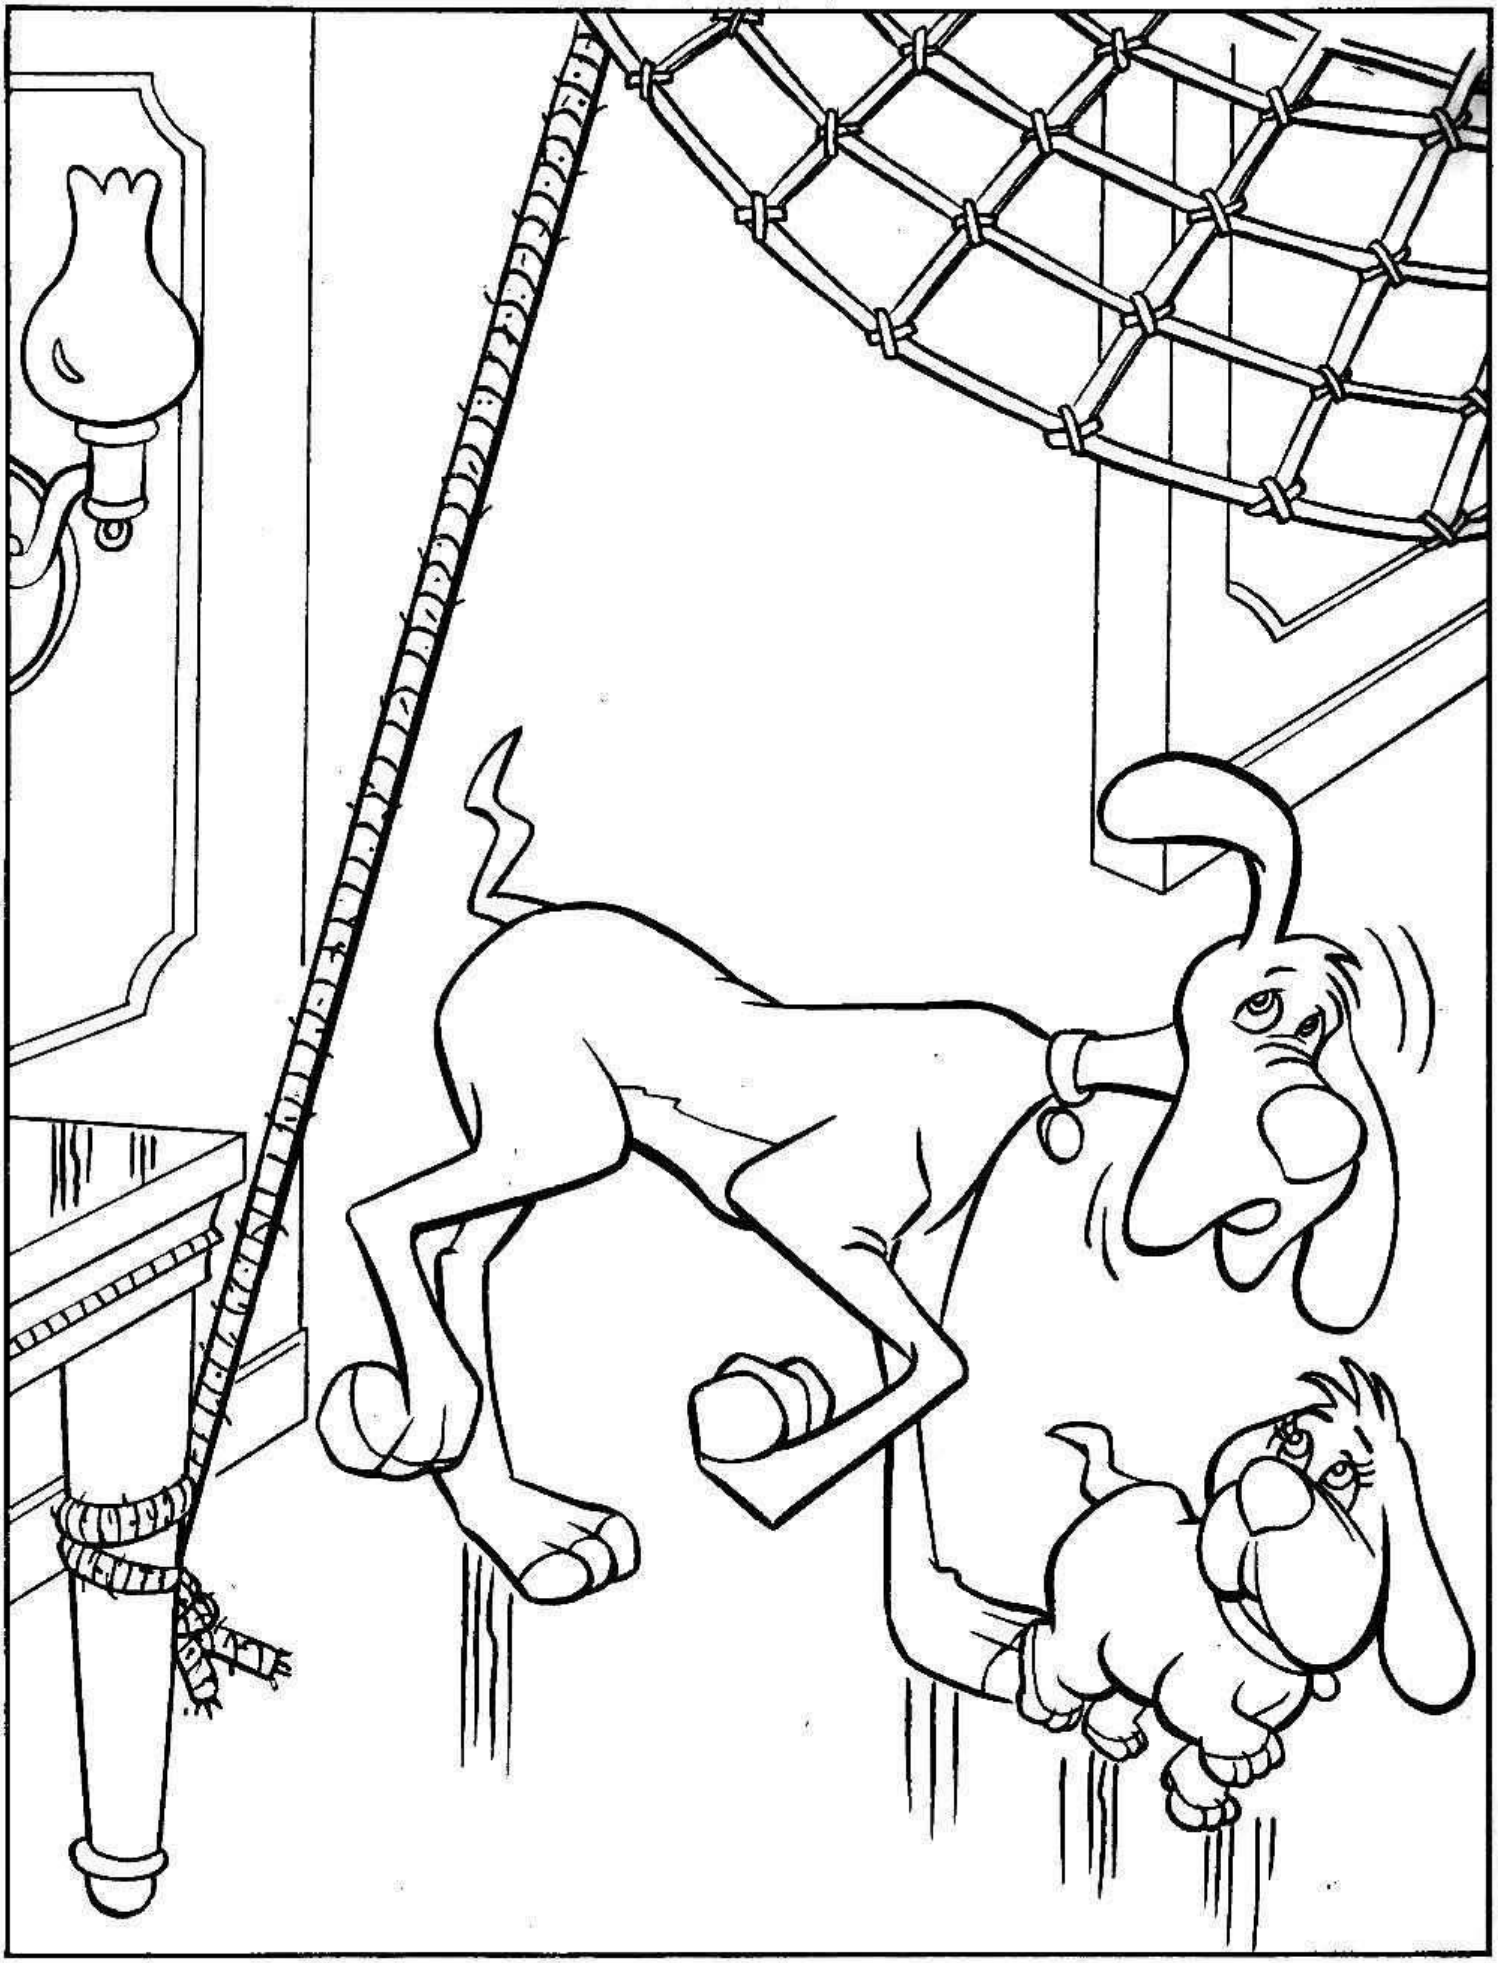
Look out, Fencer!



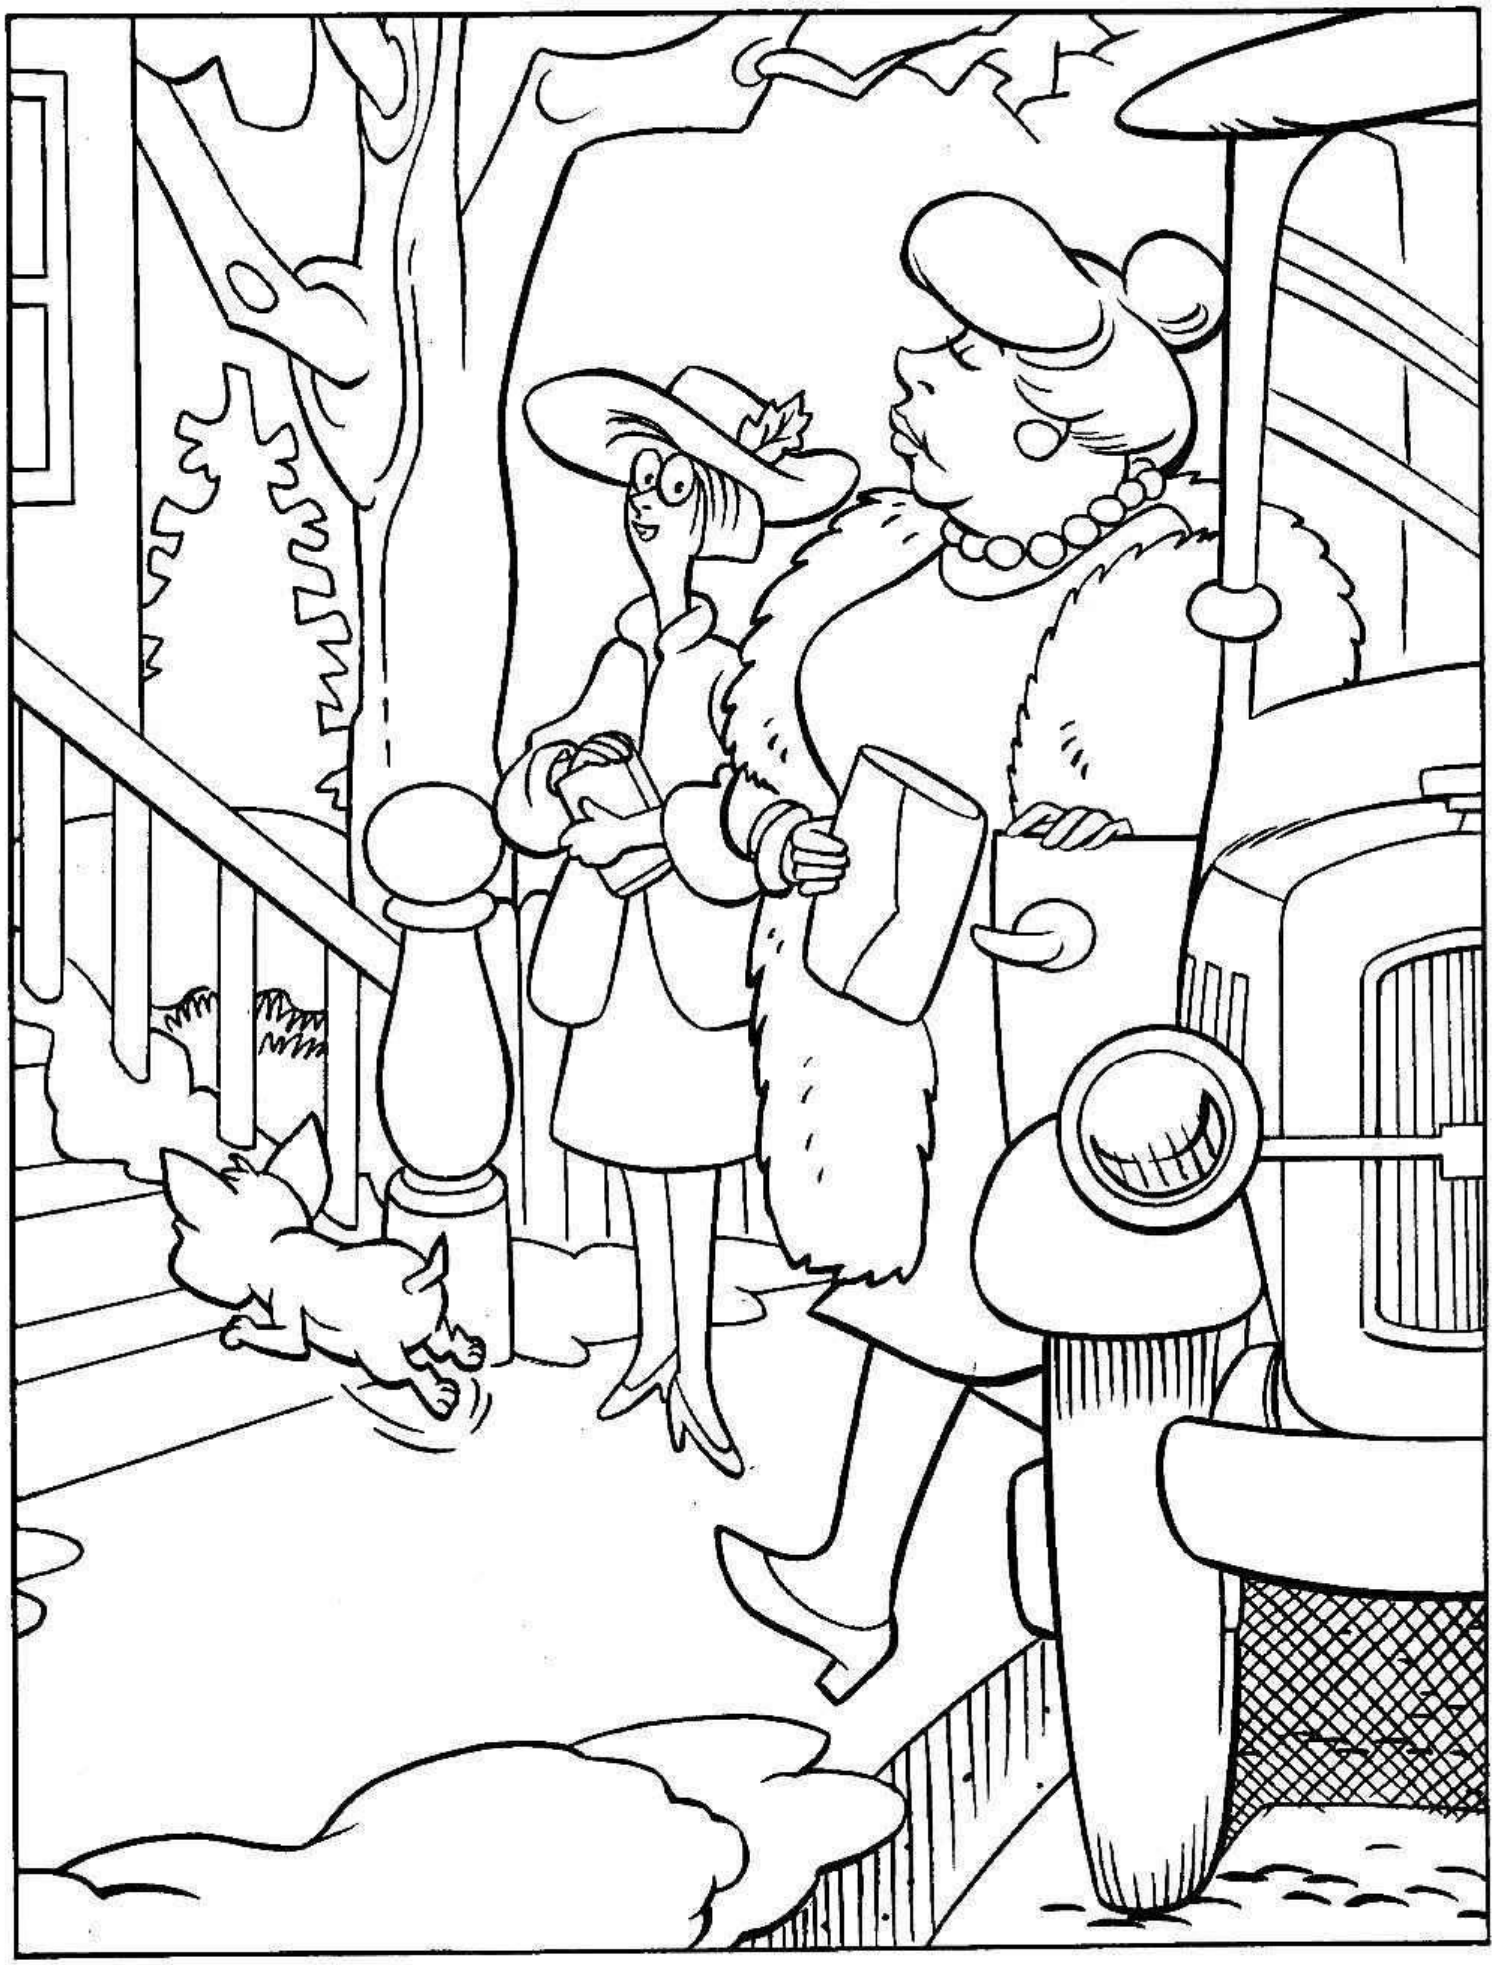
EEEYYYYAAA! Time to cut and run!



The rats have Fencer trapped in the cellar. "Now I've lost my friends and my home for sure," Fencer cries.



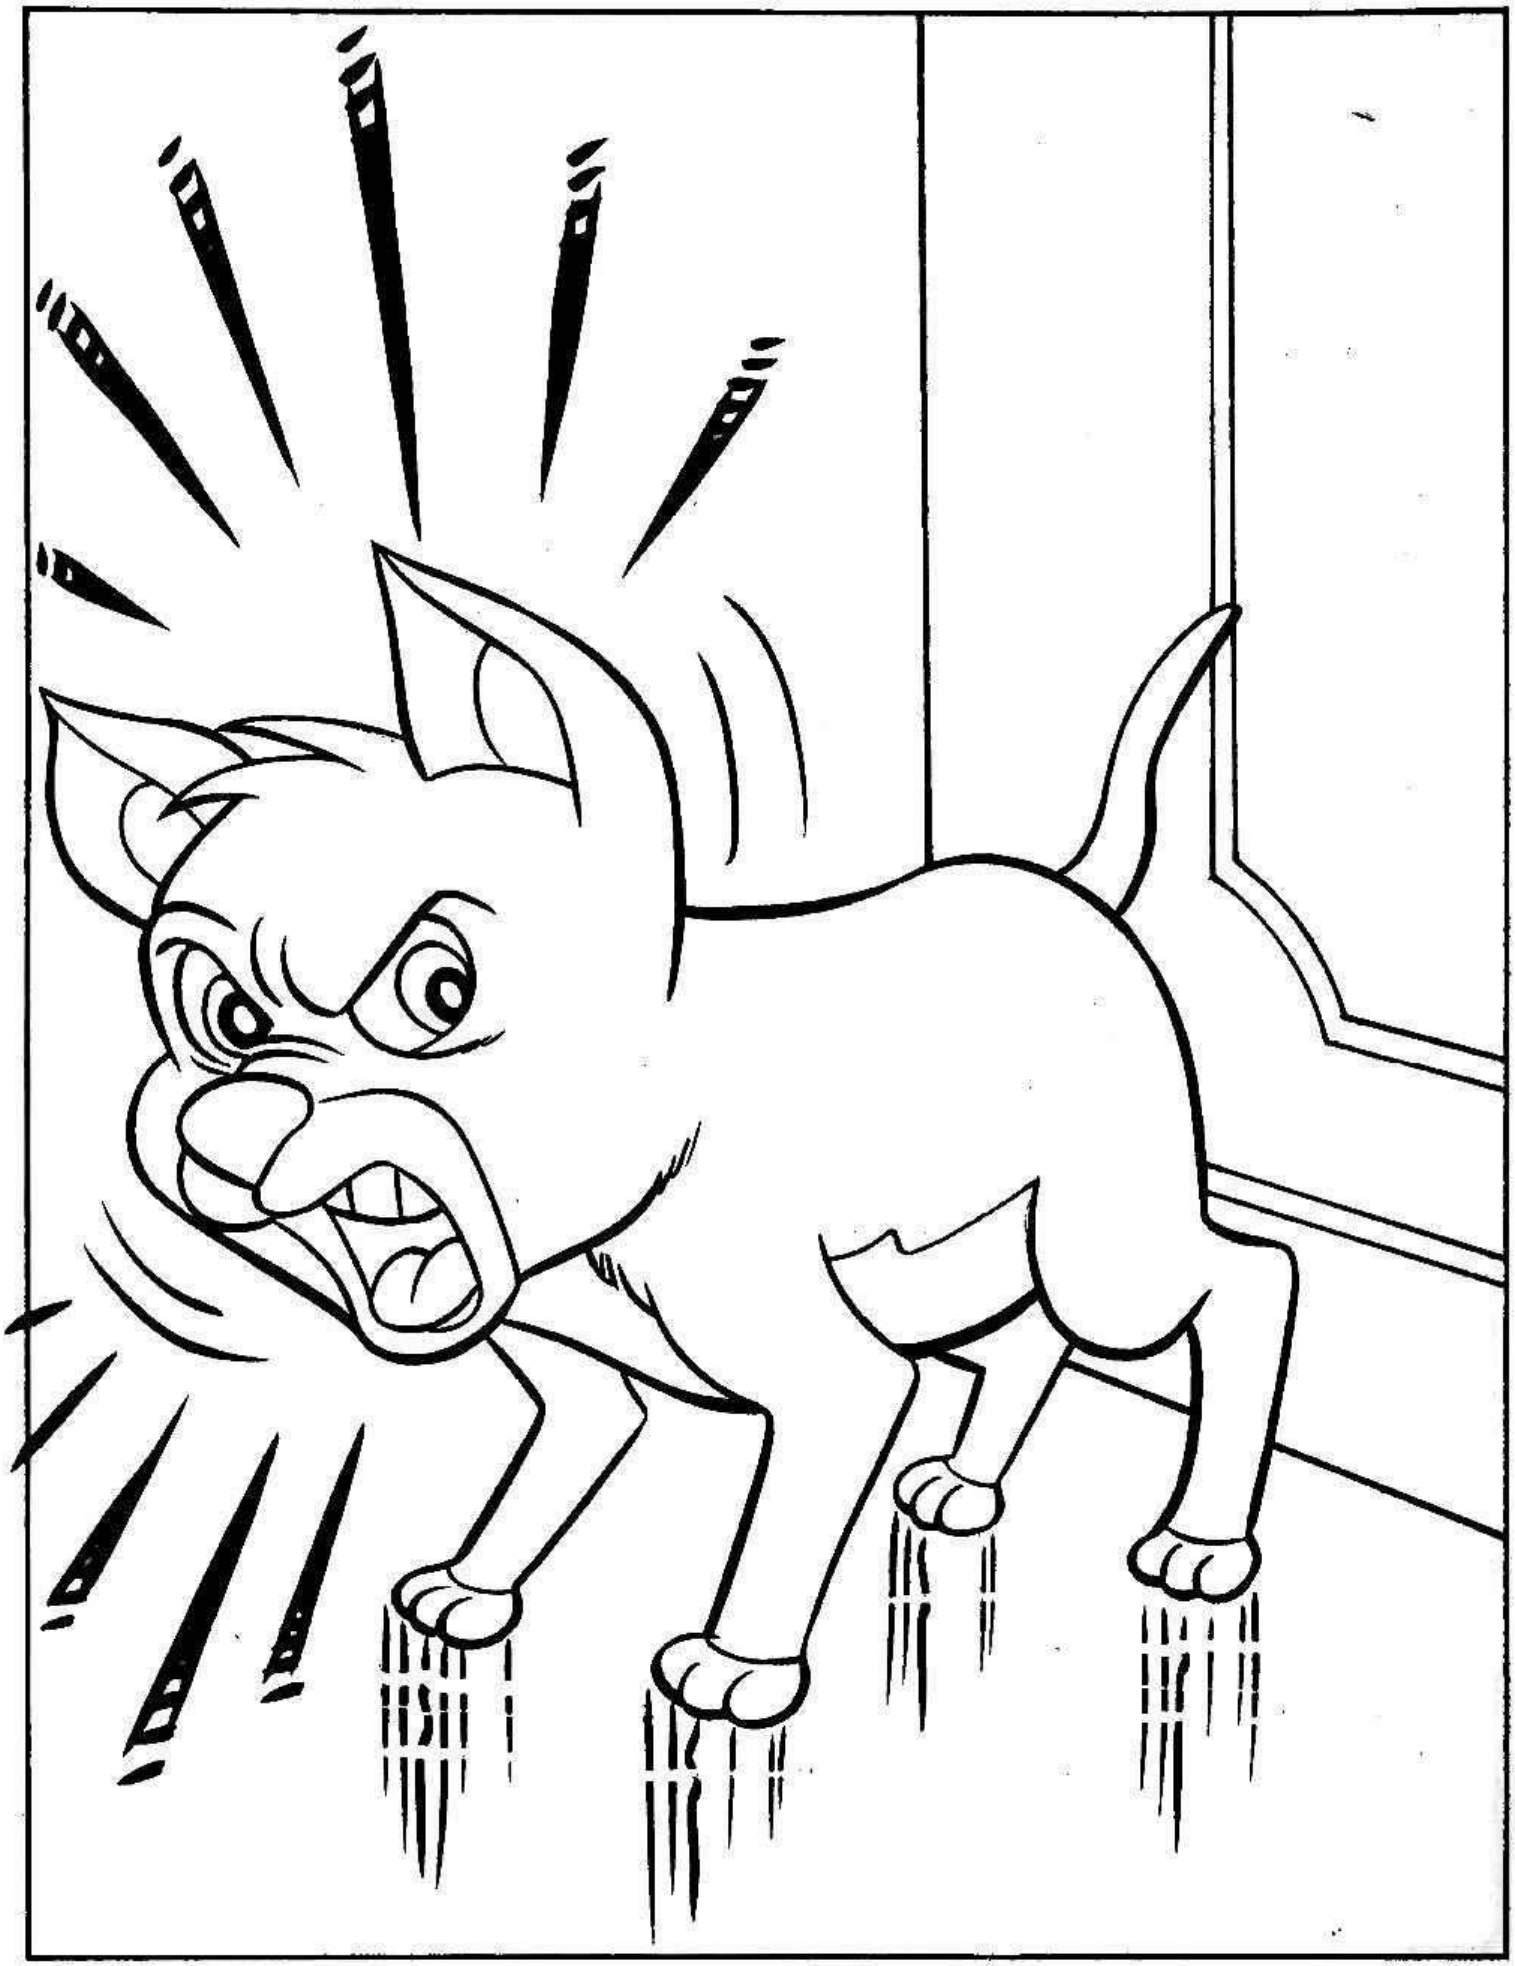
"Well, I'll be," says Foofer. "That blamed cat was supposed to take this stupid trap apart."



As if things aren't bad enough, here comes Mrs. Escrow!

Mr. and Mrs. Fussbudget look like they're ready to buy! So long home-sweet-home.

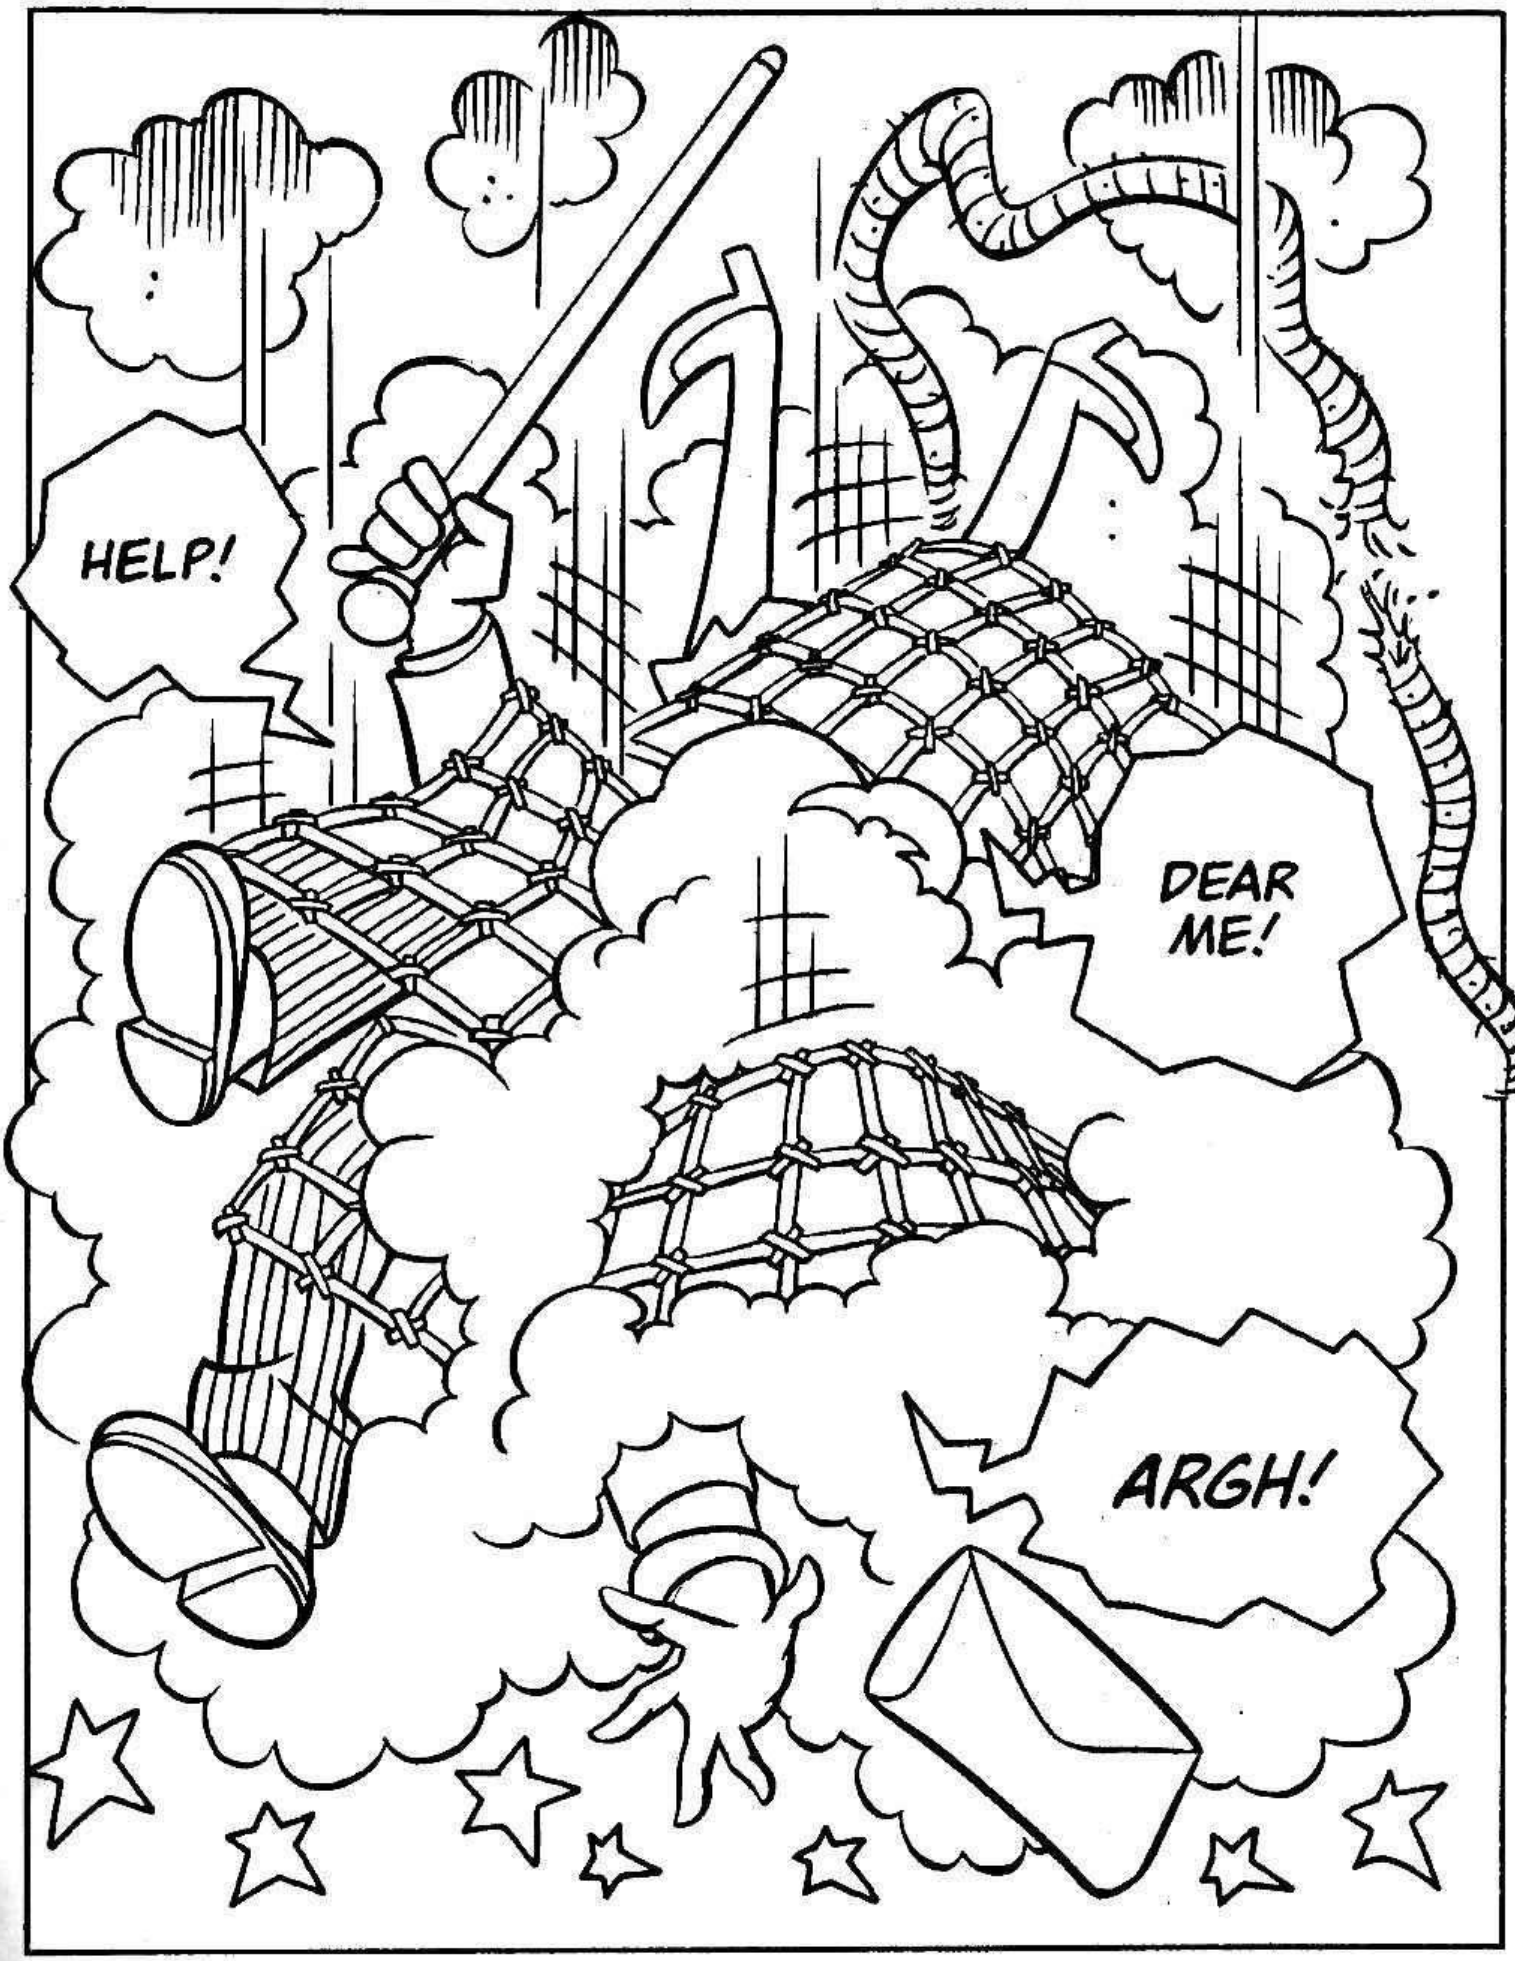
Head for the hills, gang! Maybe for the last time.



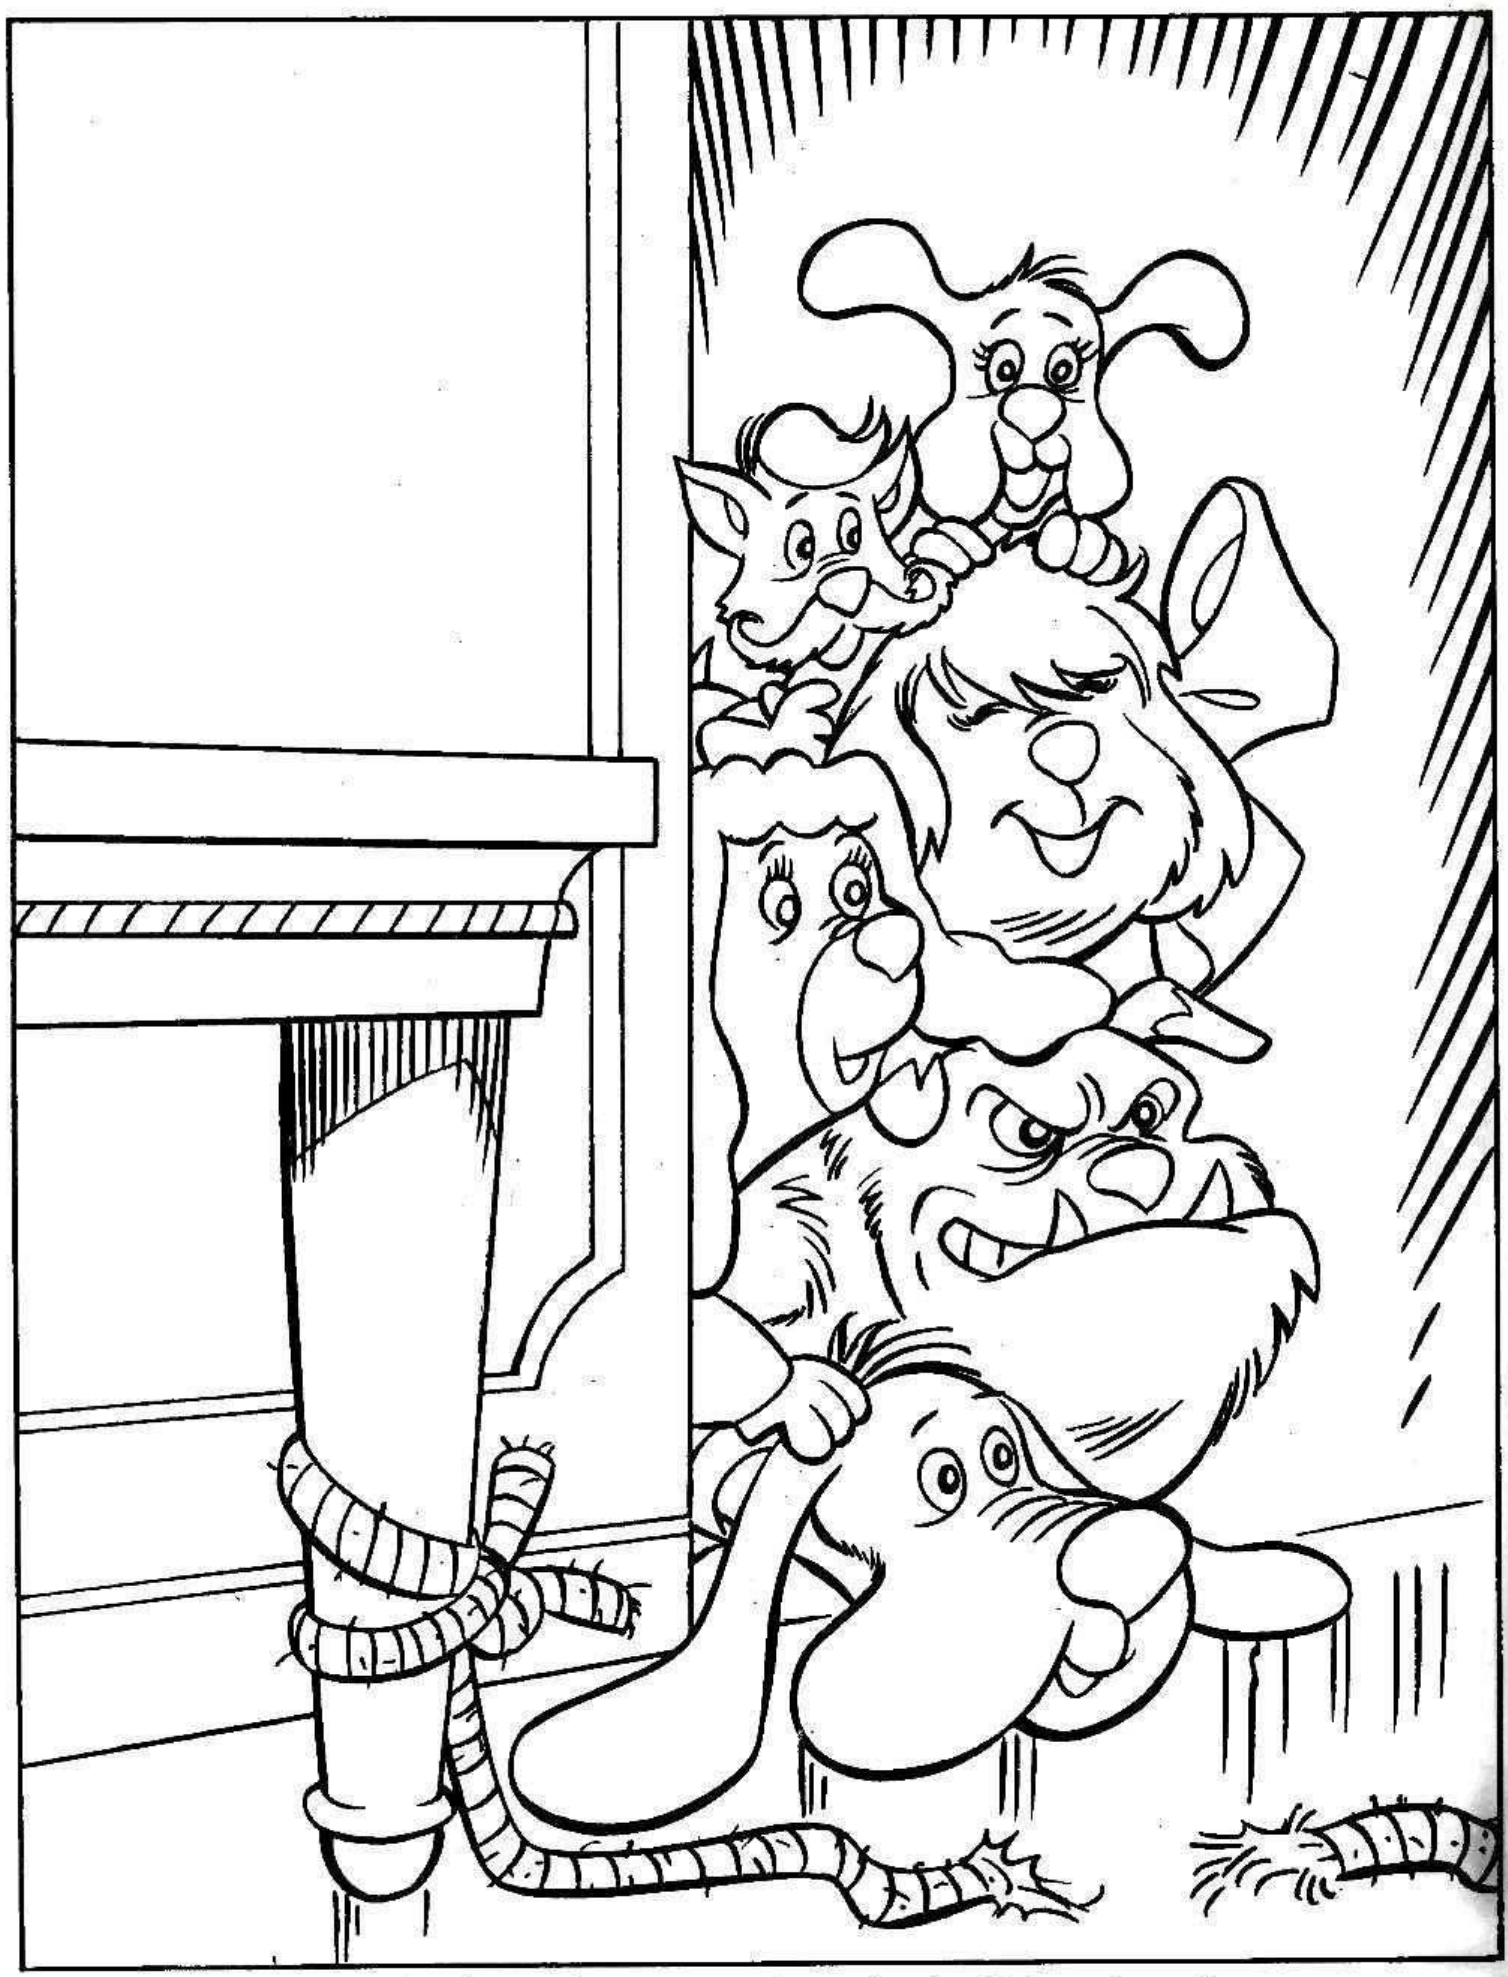
"Yap, yap, yap!" Pepe smells a trap, and for once he's right!

Everything looks in order, but Mrs. Fussbudget insists on inspecting the oval room . . . one last time.

Mrs. Escrow leads the way . . .

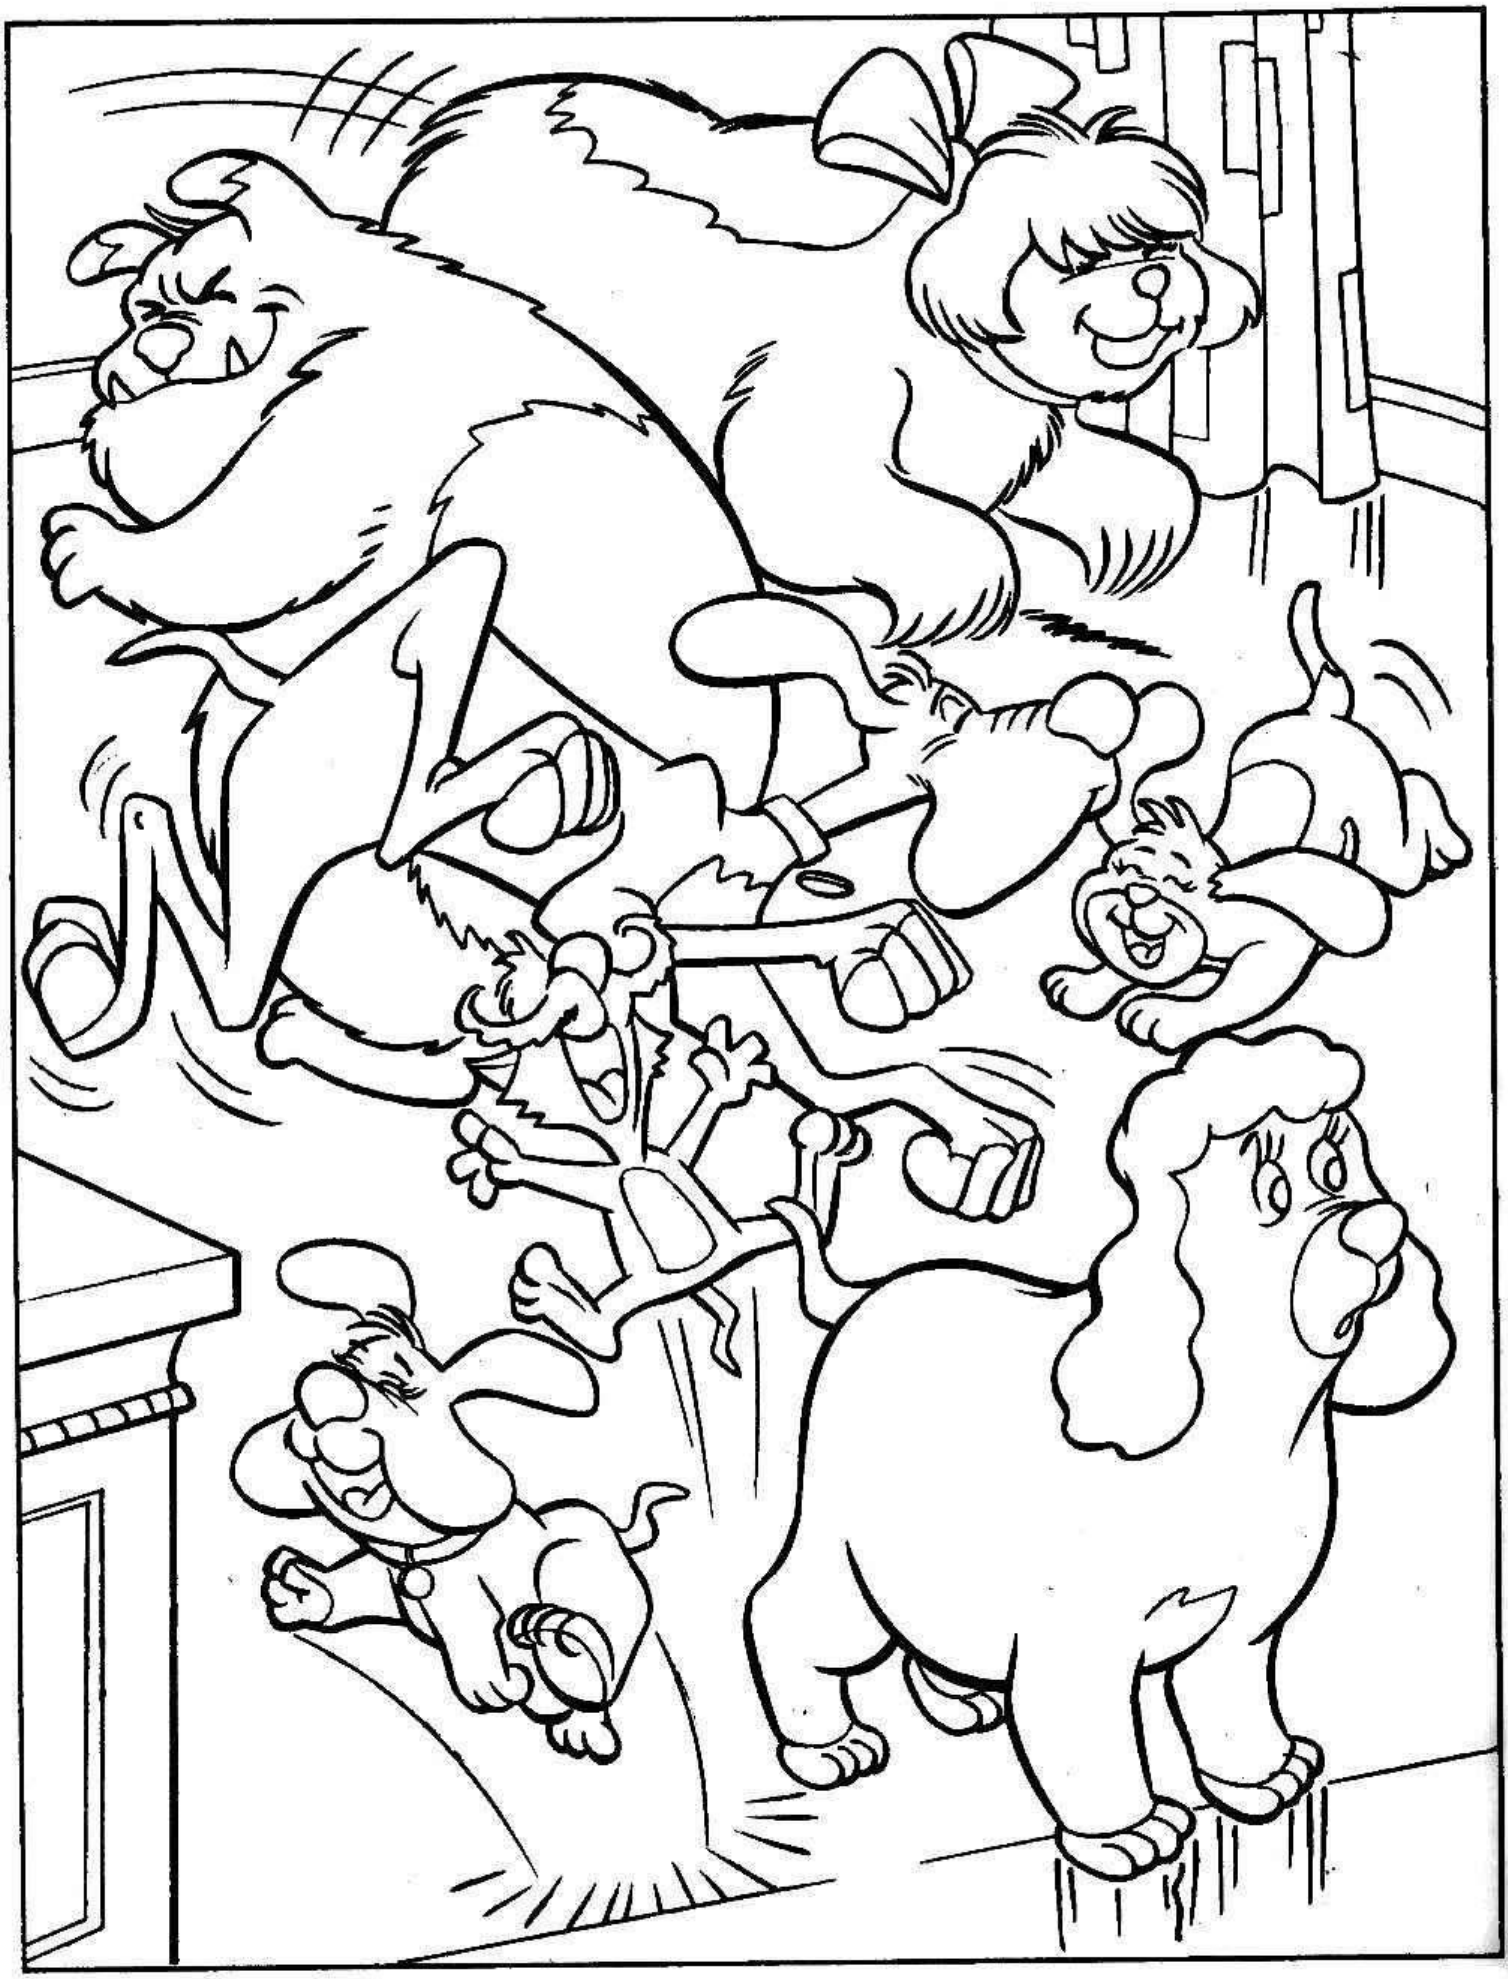


. . . straight into Fencer's best trap yet. Crash! Bang! Yipes!



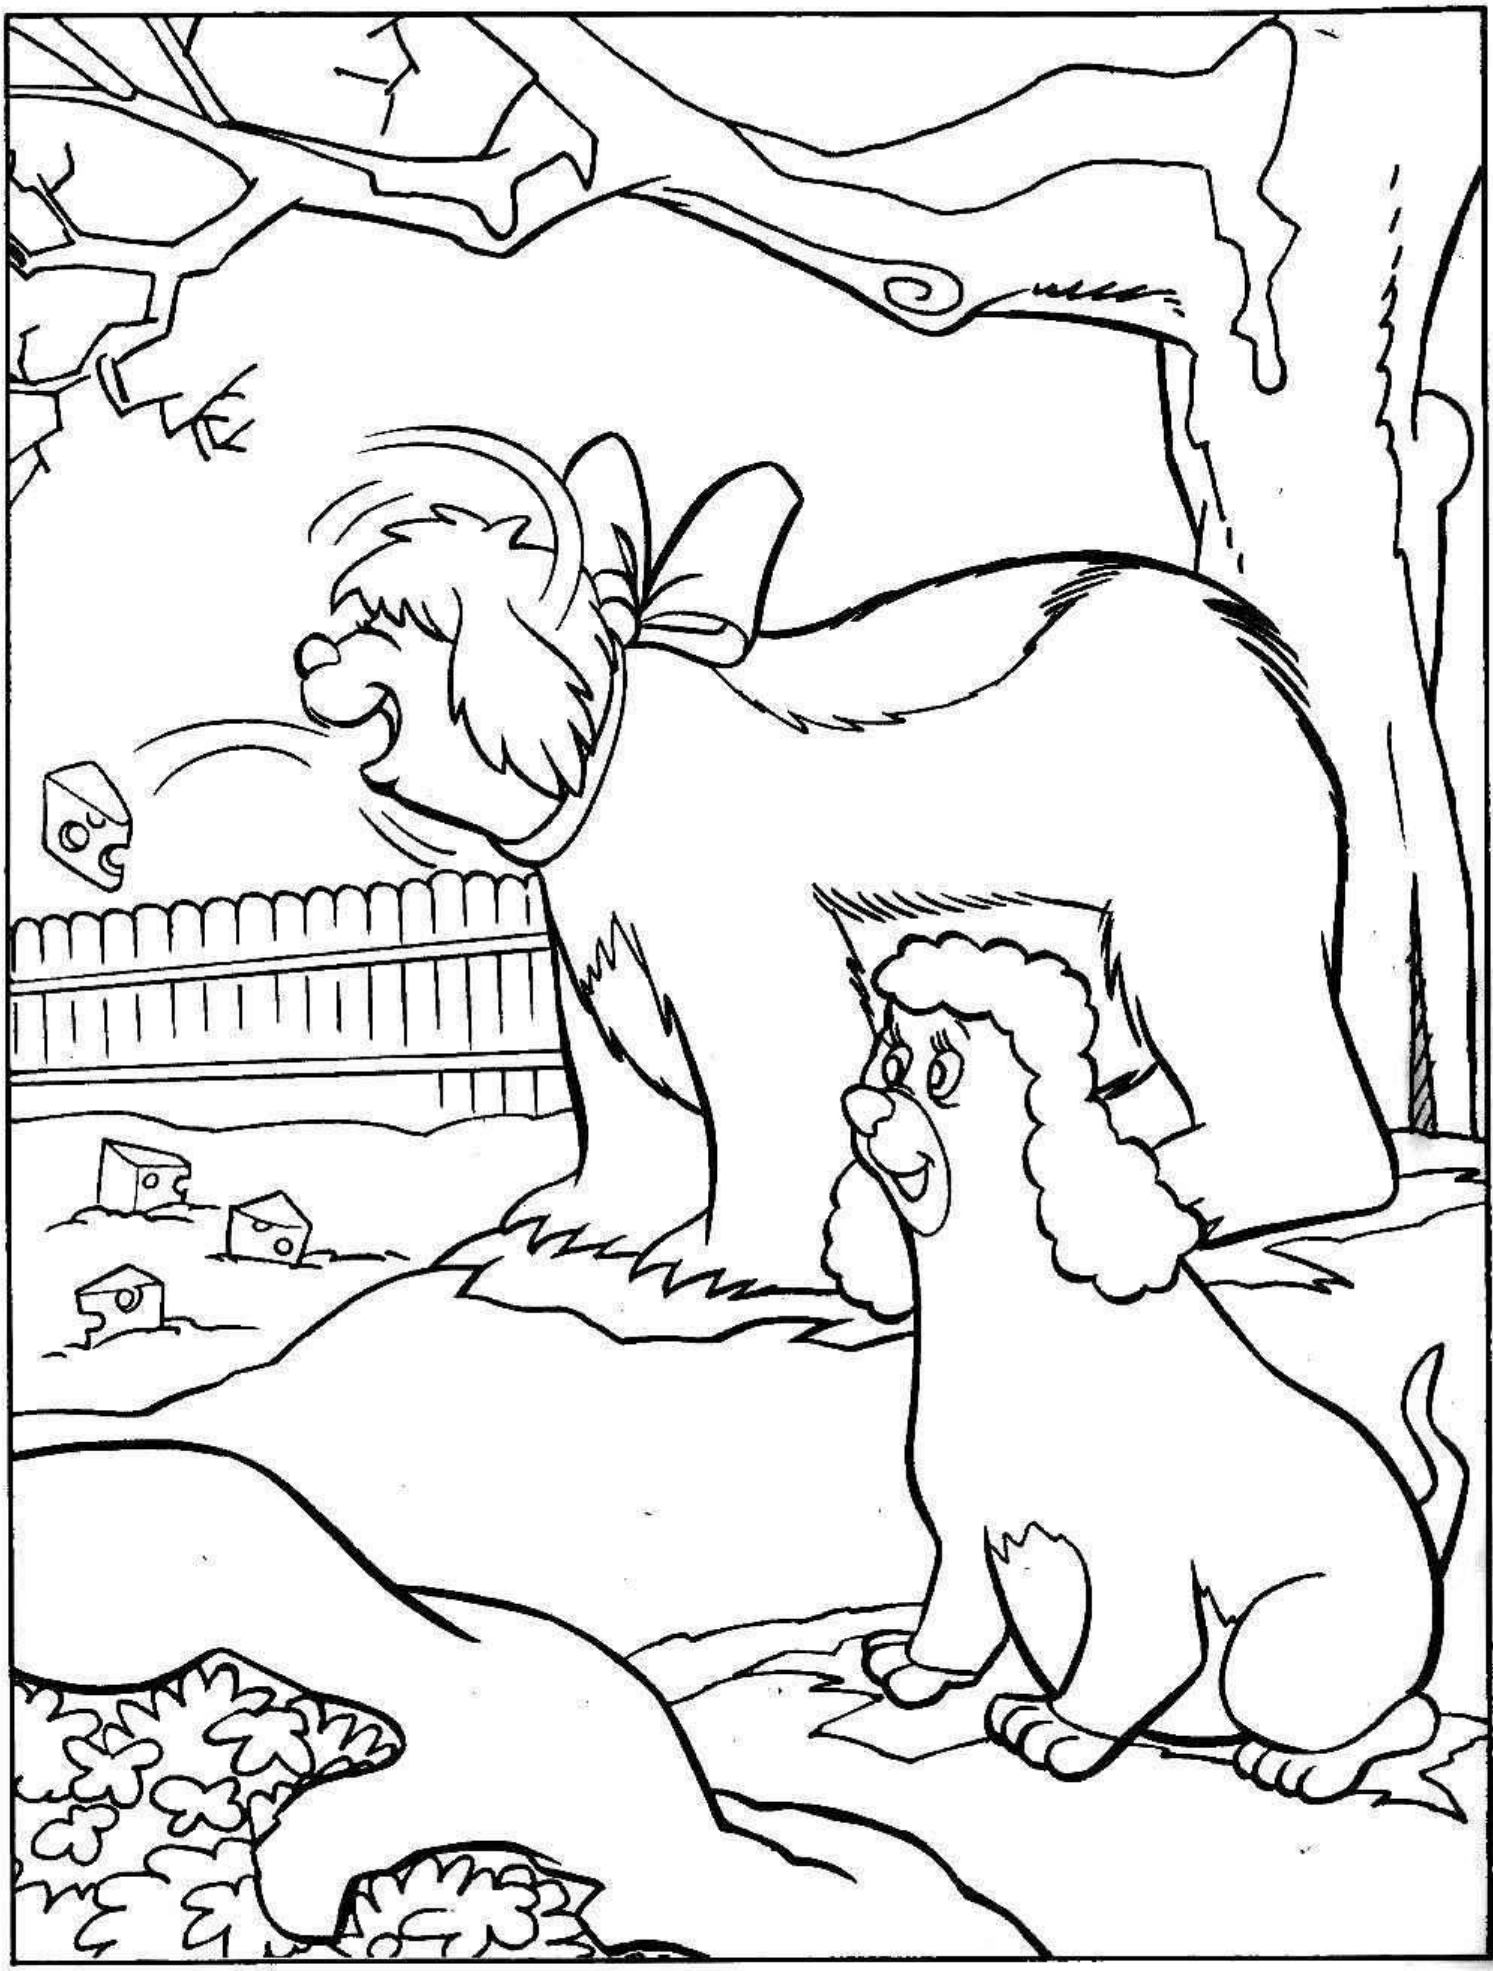
Maybe this kung-fu trap wasn't such a bad idea after all.

"We told you," shouts Mr. Fussbudget, "no trick-playing kids in OUR neighborhood!"



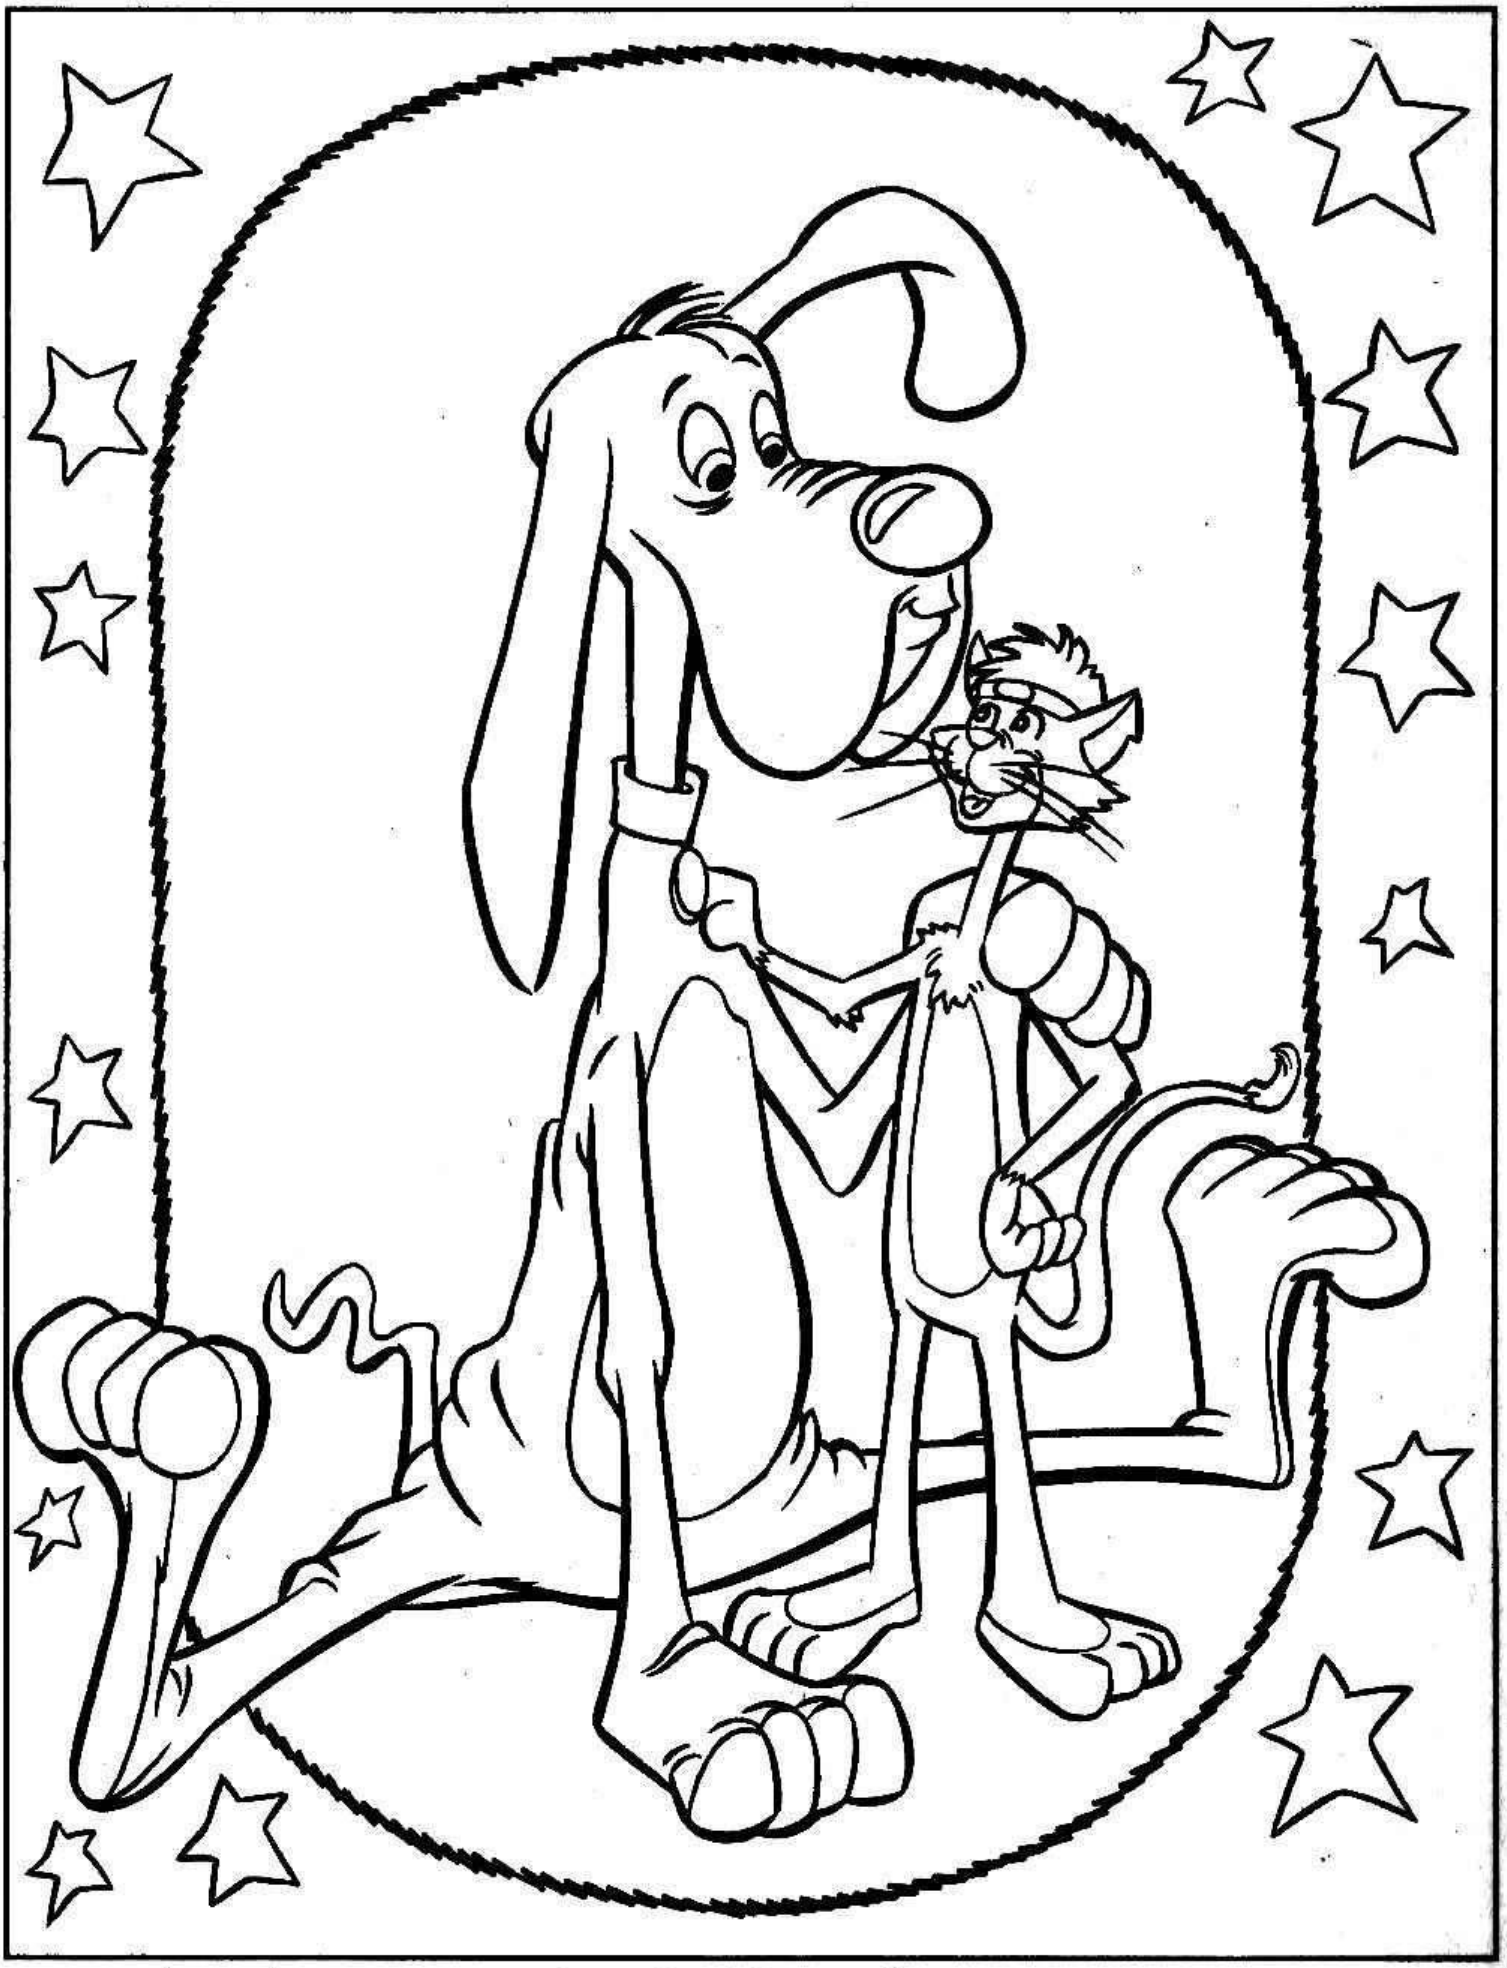
"Our home is saved," cheers Rocki. "And we owe it all to Fencer!"
But where is he?

Fritz-Carlos sniffs out his feline friend. Louis is ready to muscle down the cellar door.



Annabell and Hazel get rid of those pesky rat brothers, for now, with the help of a bribe.

"Fencer is our hero!" everyone shouts.



Friends stick together.
